In Tribute to the Architects

THE same genius who created the lofty pinnacle of progress—the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Building in San Francisco, that white magic tower—has also conceived the plan from which in all its beauty, the new State Theatre has sprung.

Timothy L. Pflueger and J. R. Miller are the architects. To them must go credit for the perfection of detail, the individuality of design, the magnificence and harmony of the complete ensemble which is the New State Theatre tonight.

In this new theatre, Oroville beholds its first Spanish Theatre, the inspired result of the architectural artistry of Timothy L. Pflueger and J. R. Miller.
