This is a good looking house despite the prominent dormers. The interior seems to have had three partitions removed. There appears to be a Victorian and modern wing on the rear and a separate two-car garage.

This house, while having been altered through the years, still retains a sufficient amount of its original fabric that it should be recognized and retained. We are therefore including it for its architectural significance, for its association with the exploration and settlement of the Bergen County area, and for its remaining historic fabric. As such, it is included in the Thematic Nomination to the National Register of Historic Places for the Early Stone Houses of Bergen County, New Jersey.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

This land was part of the Kiersted Patent of 1686 and James Vandelinda, a descendant of Roelof and Peter Vandelinda, bought a tract in 1804 for his sons James and Adam who built their houses. This house was sold after the Civil War to R. H. Johnson, a lawyer for William Walter Phelps. Benjamin Parker then sold it to Frank Larkin in 1913. The present owners bought the house in 1953 from a Dr. Clark who had owned it for two years.
