
St. Mark's Philadelphia Lady Chapel
Photo: George Thomas

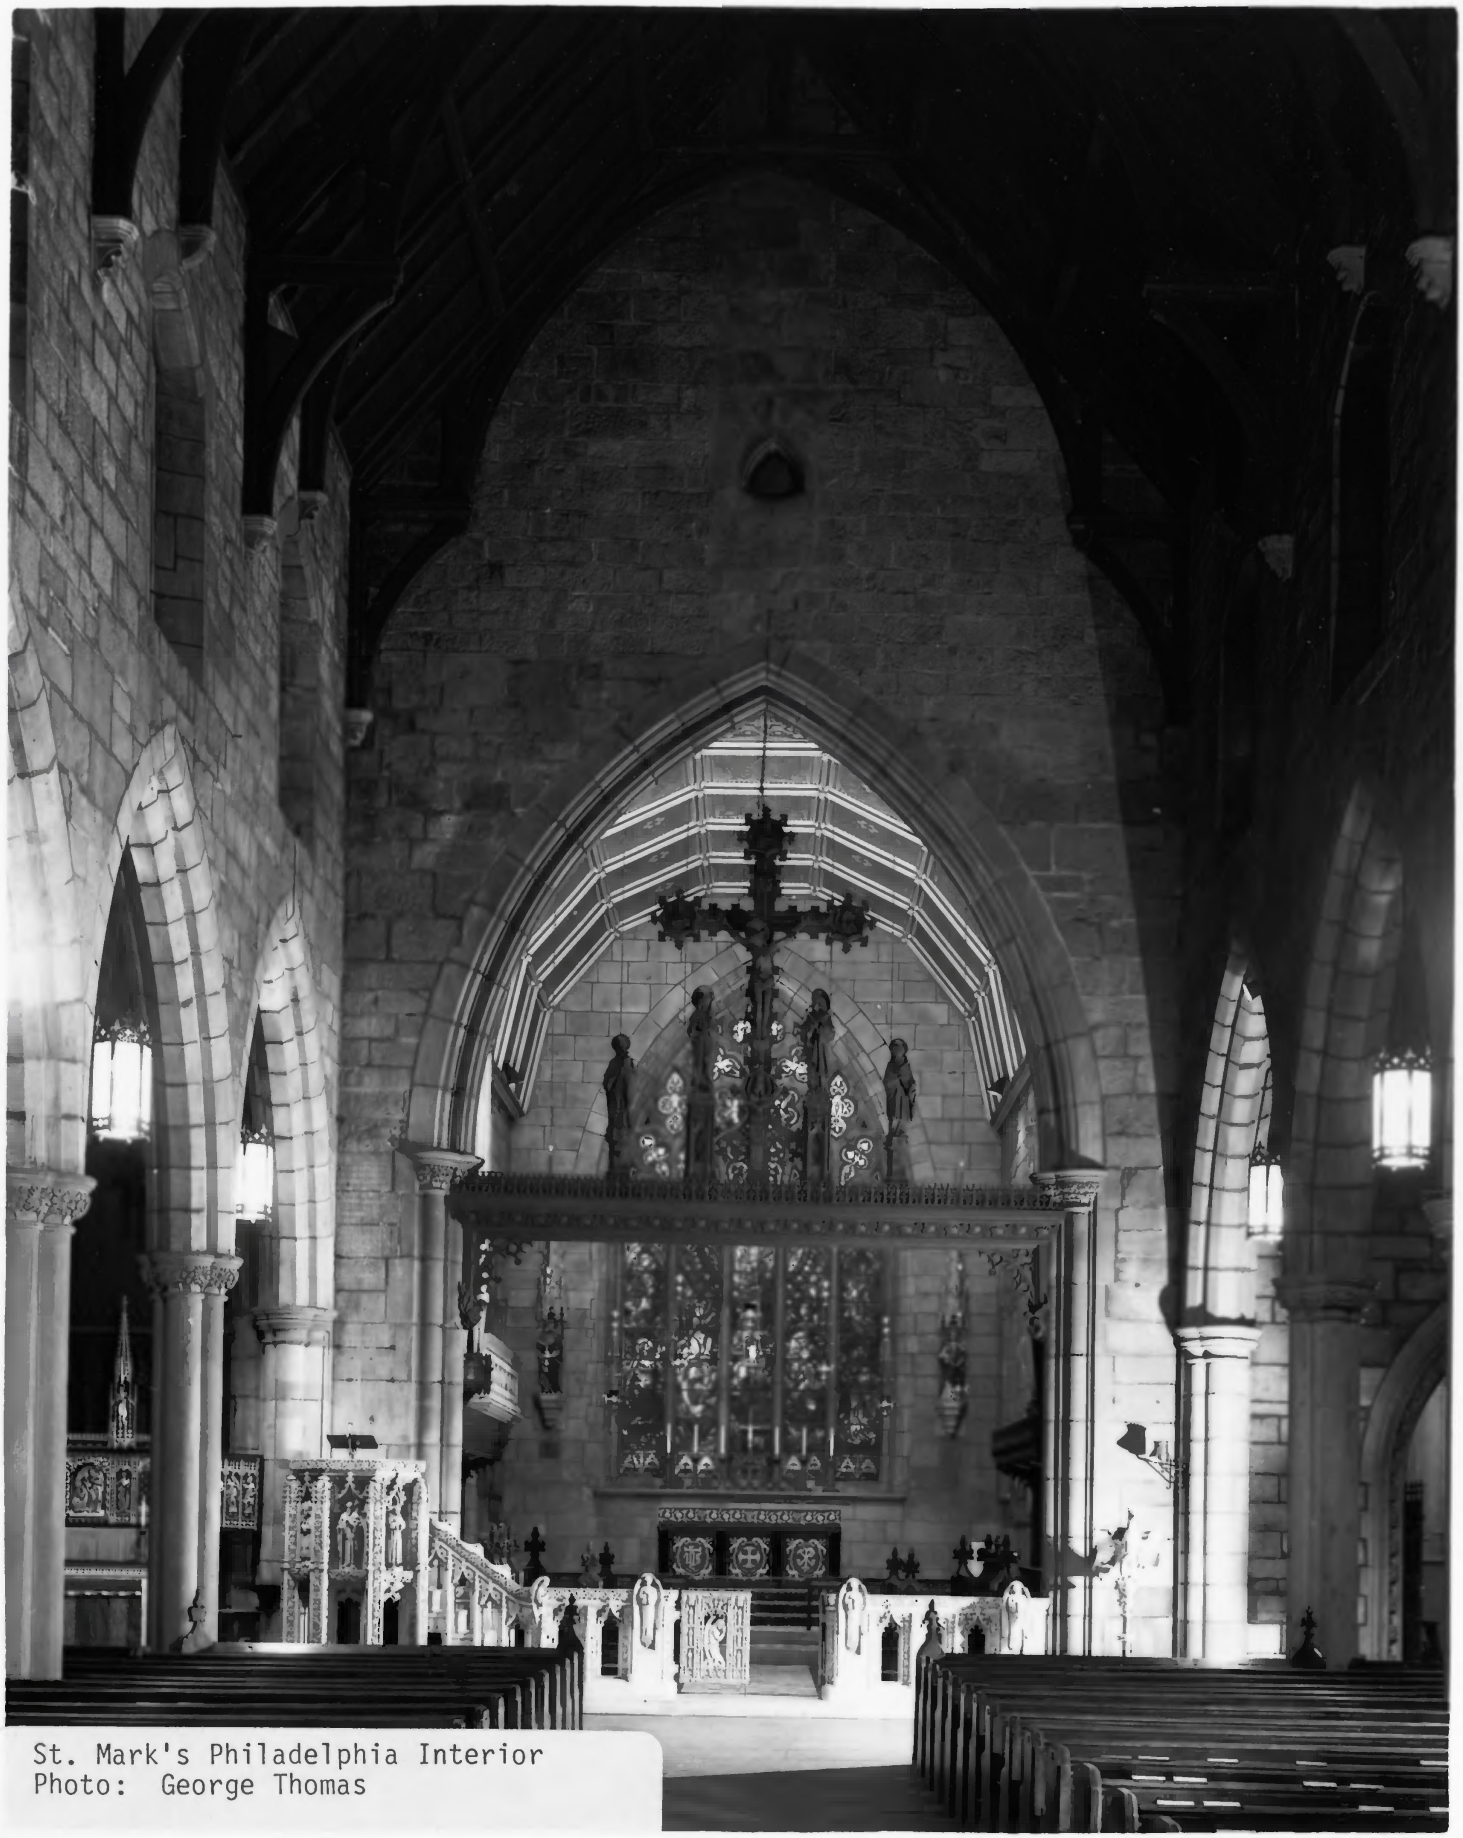
St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia: "Lady Chapel" exterior. Walter Cope (Cope & Stewardson), architect, 1900-1902.

Photo: George Thomas

St. Mark's Philadelphia Exterior
Photo: George Thomas

St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia, exterior from southeast. John Notman, architect: church and tower 1848-52; Walter Cope (Cope & Stewardson), architect: "Lady Chapel" 1900-1902.

Photo: George Thomas

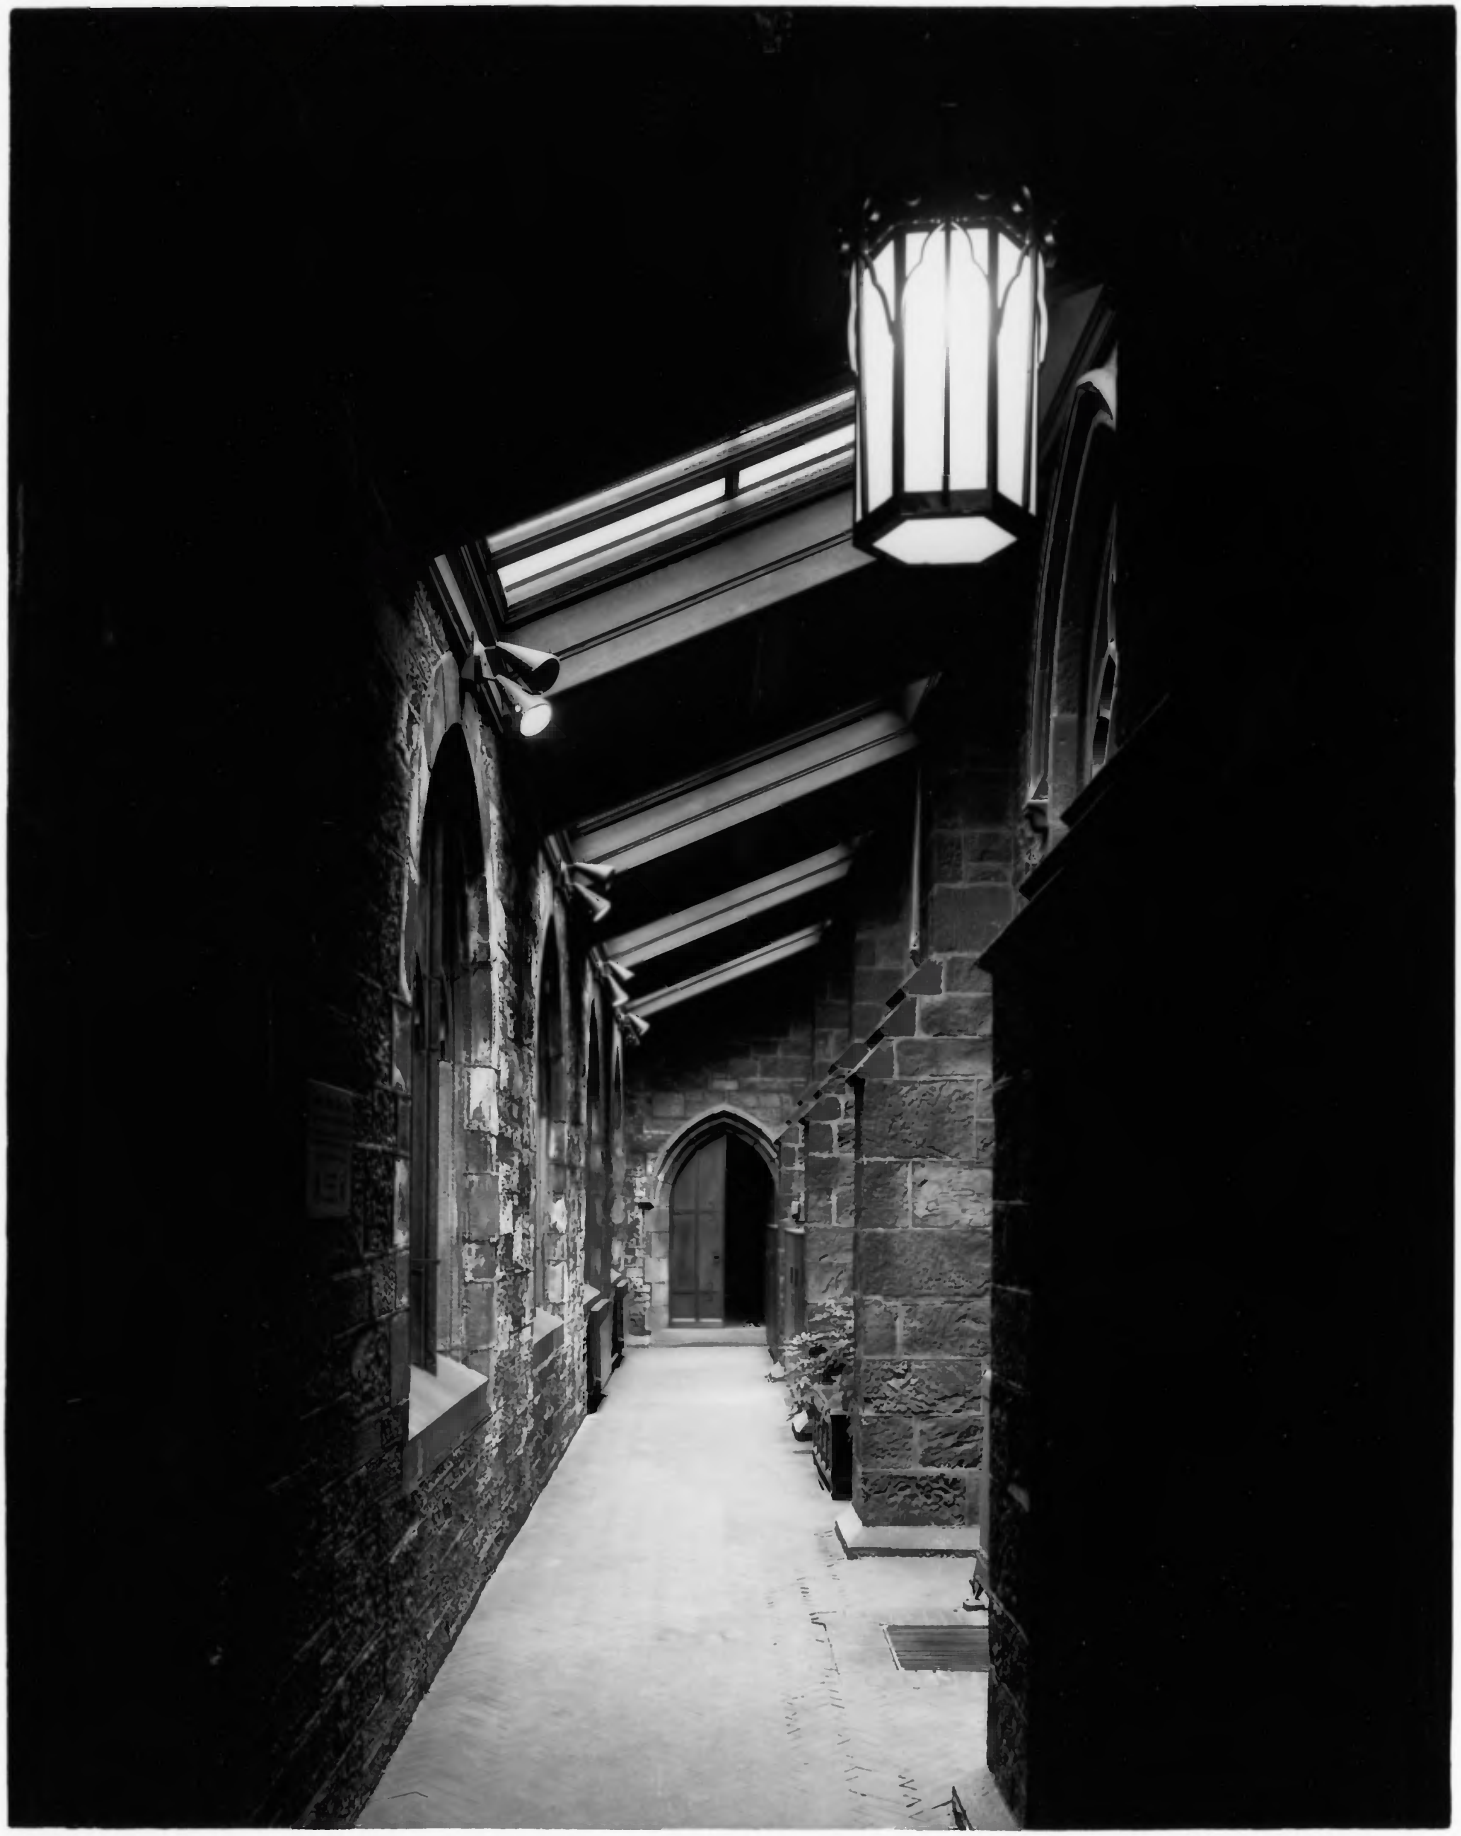


St. Mark's Philadelphia Interior
Photo: George Thomas

St. Mark's Church - interior, looking east. John Notman, architect; 1848-50. Woodwork by Henry Vaughan, architect; 1905. Chancel rail and pulpit, 1913 (designer unknown at this time).
Photo: George Thomas

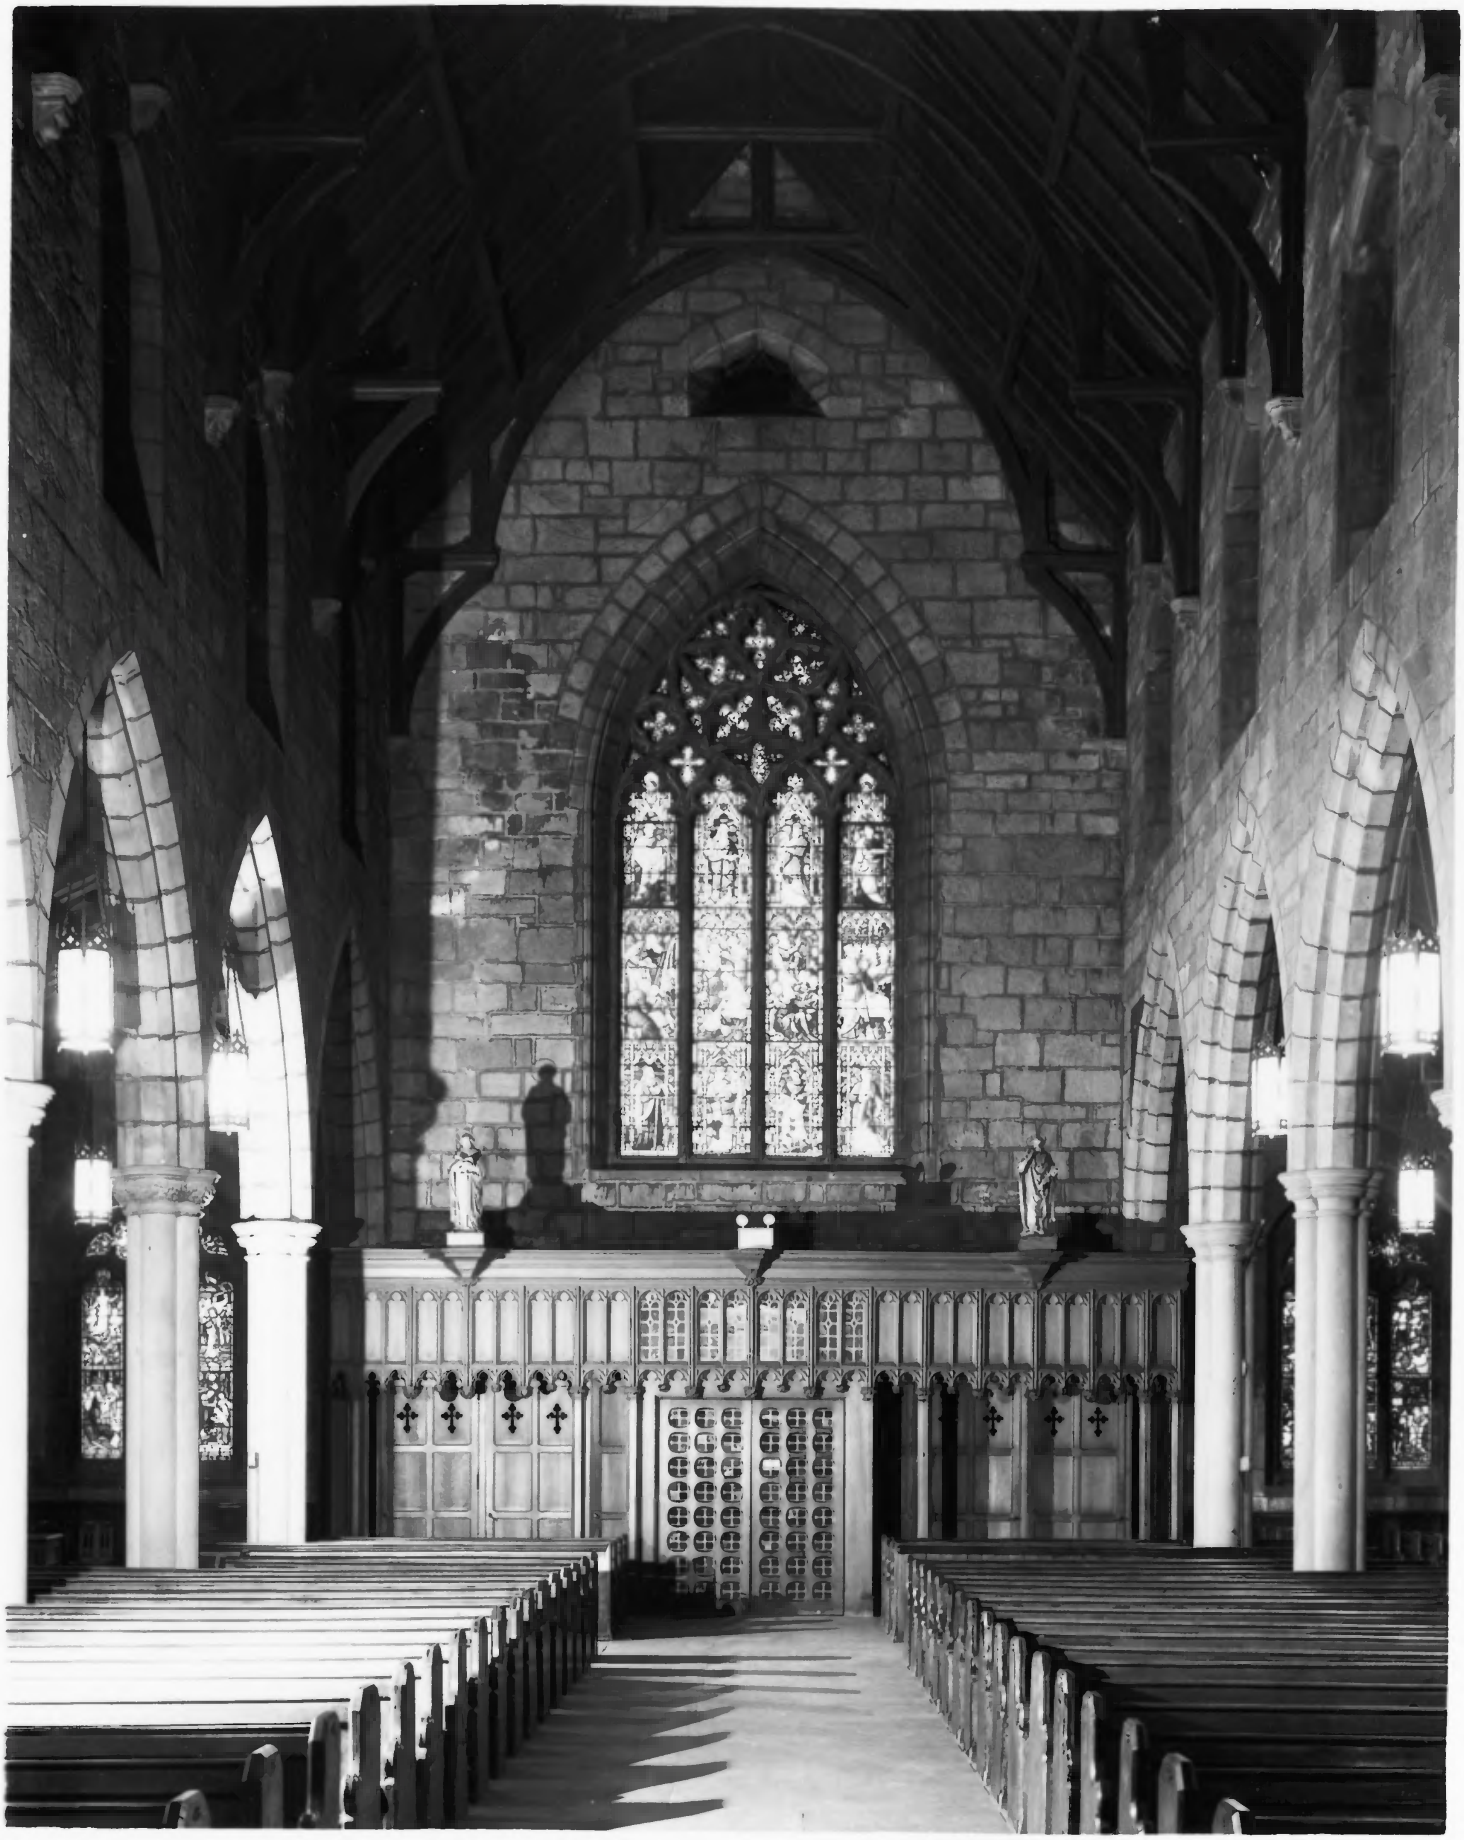
St. Mark's Philadelphia Interior
Photo: George Thomas

St. Mark's Church - interior;
pulpit and chancel rail, 1913.
Designer unknown at present
(possibly L.C. Tiffany? cf.
St. Stephen's Church, Phila.)
Photo: George Thomas.



St. Mark's Church, interior: "cloister," on north side of church, looking east. Hayle-hurst and Huckle, architects, 1992.

Photo: George Thomas.



St. Mark's Church - interior, looking west. John Notman, architect, 1848-50.

Photo: George Thomas

St. Mark's Church, interior:
"Lady Chapel" looking south.
Walter Cope (Cope & Stewardson)
architect 1900-1902. Chapel &
silver altar given by Rodman
Wanamaker, 1900-1923.
Photo: George Thomas

St. Mark's Church, interior:
"Lady Chapel" looking north.
Walter Cope (Cope & Stewardson)
architect, 1900-1902.

Photo: George Thomas.