Death Valley Ranch (Scotty's Castle) Site Maps and Floor Plans

Death Valley Ranch has two building complexes:

Upper Grapevine Ranch – more commonly known as Scotty's Castle

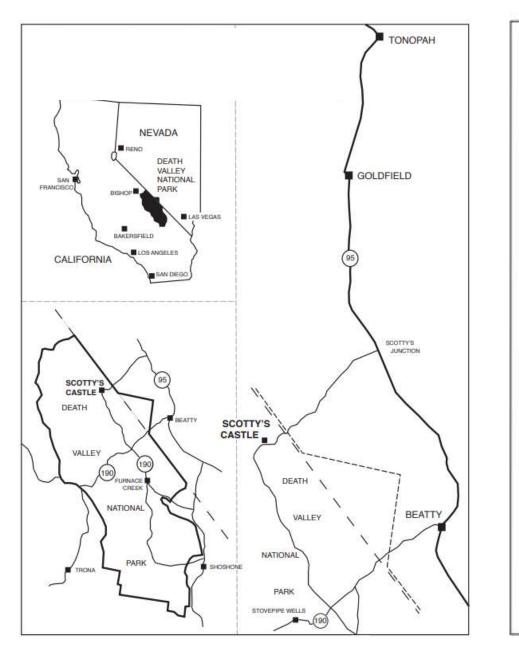

Lower Grapevine Ranch – more commonly known as Scotty's Ranch

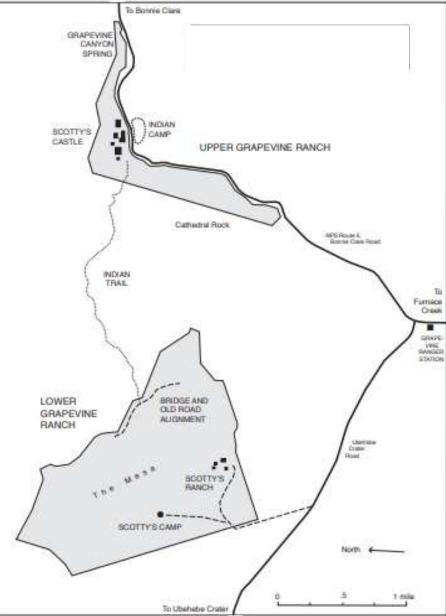

Hidden in the green oasis of Grapevine Canyon in far northern Death Valley, the Death Valley Ranch, or Scotty's Castle as it is more commonly known, is a window into the life and times of the Roaring '20s and Depression '30s. It was and is an engineer's dream home, a wealthy matron's vacation home and a man-of-mystery's hideout and getaway.

Walter Edward Perry Scott, Death Valley Scotty, convinced everyone that he had built the castle with money from his rich secret mines in the area. Albert M. Johnson, a Chicago millionaire and investor in Scotty's fake mine, actually built the house as a vacation getaway for himself and his wife Bessie. Scotty was the mystery, the cowboy, and the entertainer, but he was also a friend. Albert was the brains and the money. They were two men as different as night and day, from different worlds and with different visions - who shared a dream.

After falling in love with the climate, landscape, and isolation of the desert, Albert M. Johnson set to work purchasing a number of Death Valley properties from 1915 to 1917. Among these properties was the Steininger Ranch in Grapevine Canyon. The property, renamed as Death Valley Ranch, have two building complexes. Upper Grapevine Ranch is where Johnson first built practical concrete box structures. Lower Grapevine Ranch is where Scotty resided. Over the next decade the modest buildings at Upper Grapevine Ranch evolved into the vibrate and elaborate Scotty's Castle. The Castle's remodel was designed by Charles Alexander MacNeilledge and inspired by California's love of Spanish architecture. Building Superintendent, Mat Roy Thompson carried out MacNeilledge's vision on the ground.

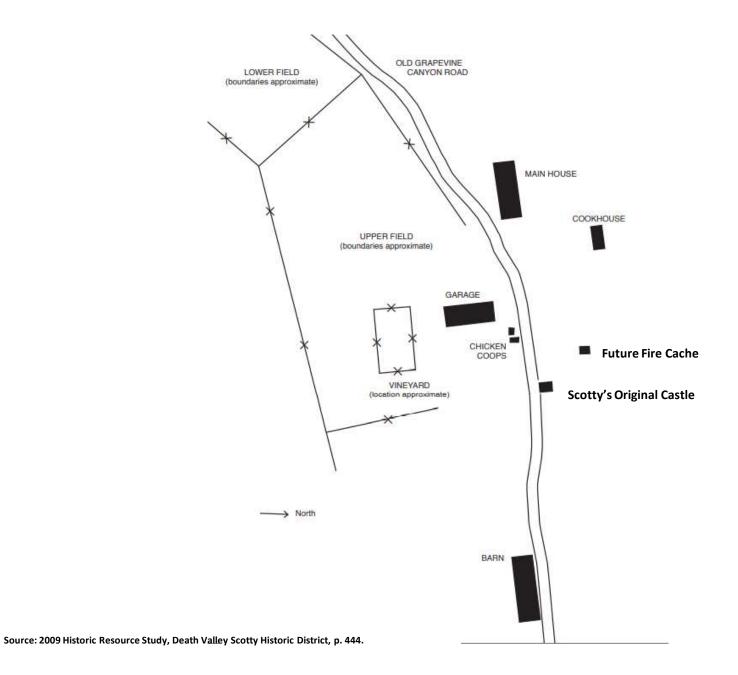

Names of property and buildings change some through time. These site maps and floor plans are labeled with the same names used in the NPGallery, Death Valley National Park, Scotty's Castle Historic Photograph Collection.

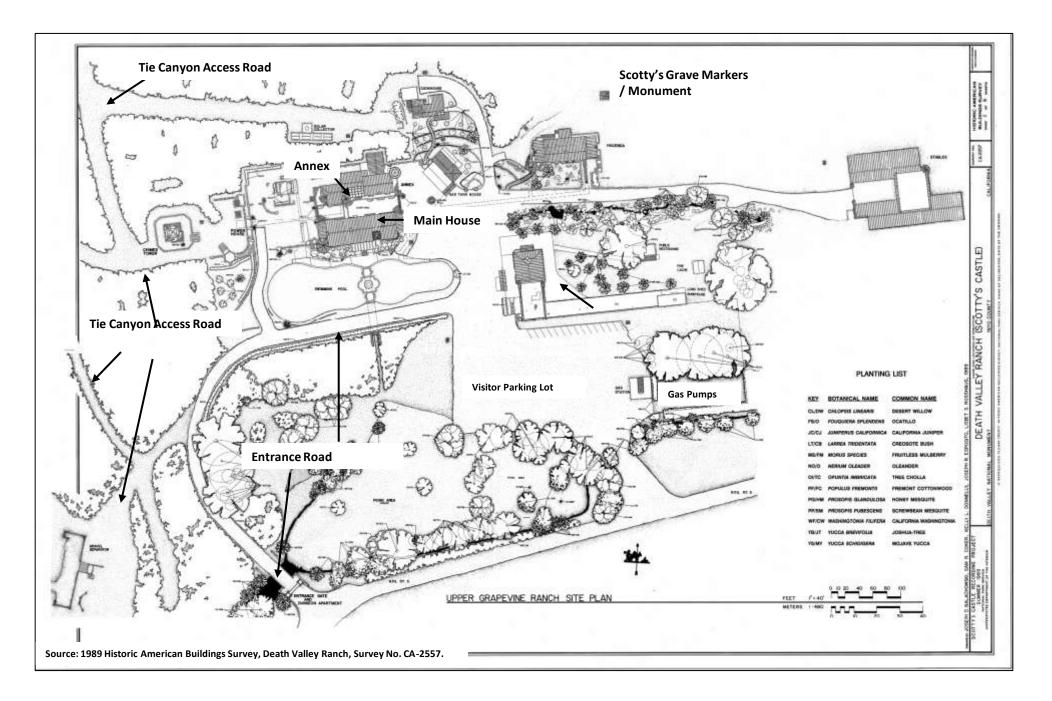

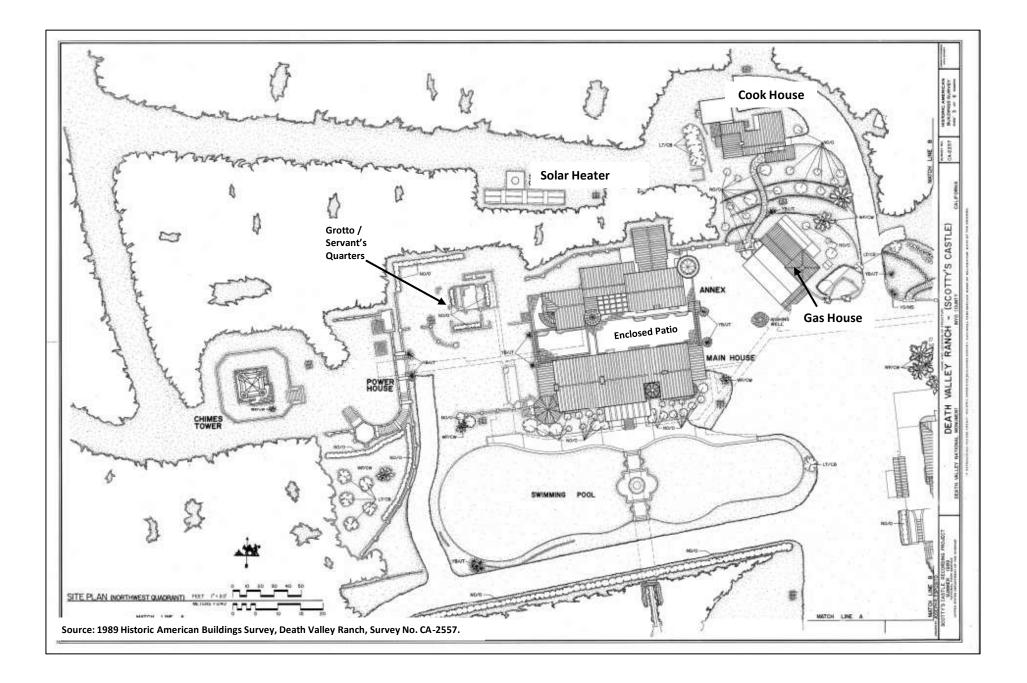

Source: 2009 Historic Resource Study, Death Valley Scotty Historic District, p. 441, 443.

Upper Grapevine Ranch – 1st construction phase 1922-1925

Upper Grapevine Ranch (Scotty's Castle)

Scotty's Castle Main House - Basement

Scotty's Castle Main House – First Floor

Scotty's Castle Main House – Second Floor

Scotty's Castle Annex – First Floor

Scotty's Castle Annex – Second Floor

Scotty's Castle Hacienda - Basement

Source: Floor Plan - 1989 Historic American Buildings Survey, Death Valley Ranch, Survey No. CA-2557.

Scotty's Castle Hacienda – First Floor

Source: Floor Plan - 1989 Historic American Buildings Survey, Death Valley Ranch, Survey No. CA-2557.

Scotty's Castle Gas House

Source: August 2009 Historic Structures Report Death Valley Scotty Historic District, page 111.

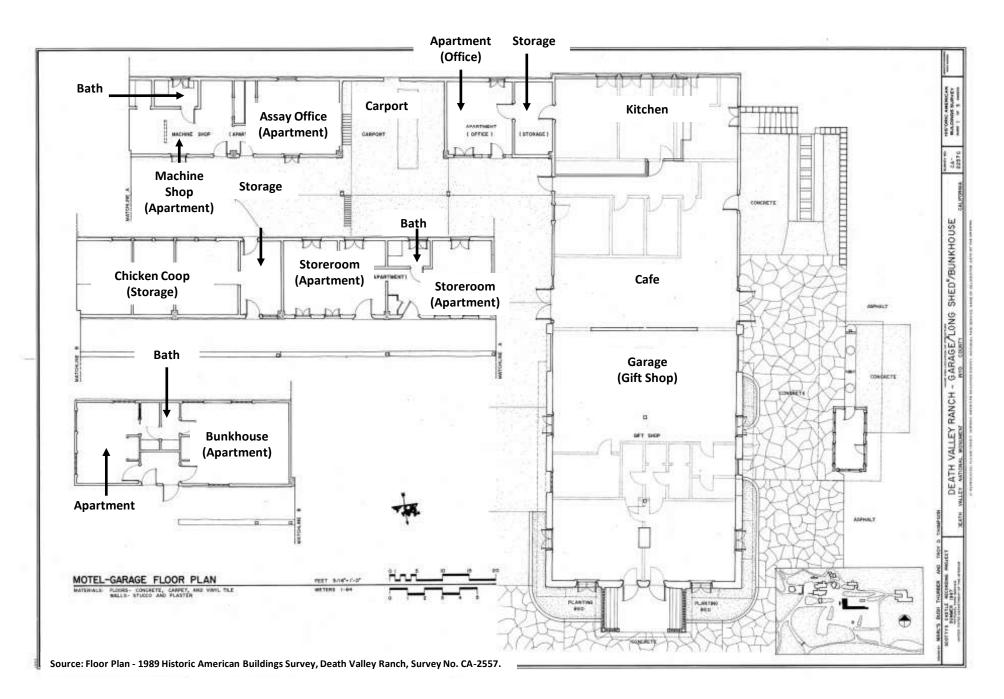

Source: Scotty's Castle Cook House Historic Structure Report, Figure 8.

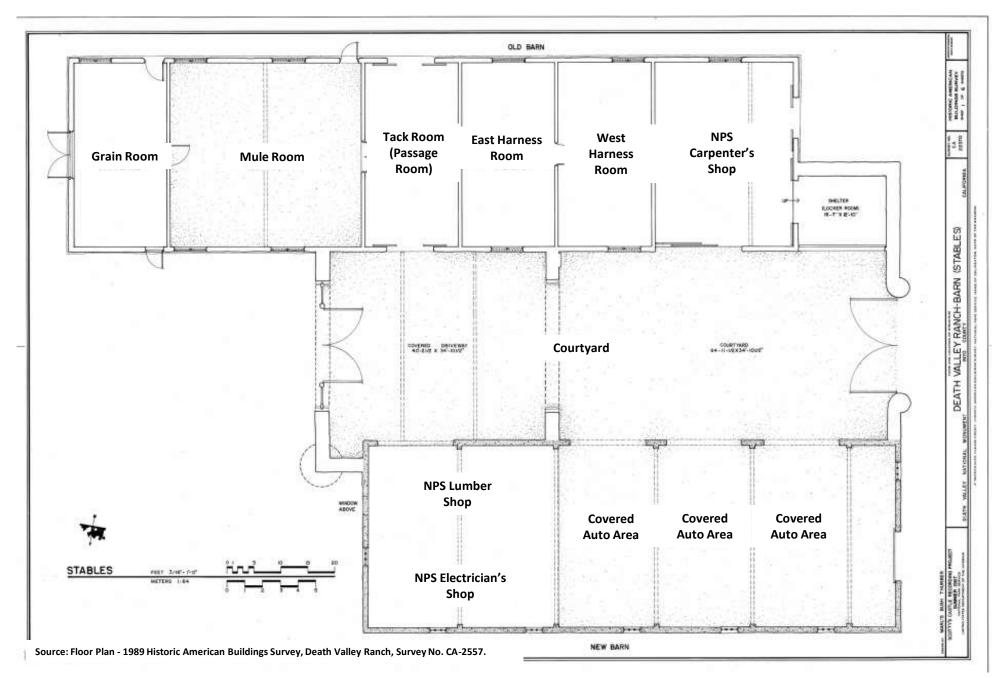

S

N

Scotty's Castle Garage / Long Shed / Bunkhouse

Scotty's Castle Stables

Scotty's Castle Entrance Gate

Scotty's Castle Tunnels

Source: Floor Plan and Name - Tunnels Floor Plan, version 07/2009

Source: 2005 Revised Cultural Landscape Inventory, Lower Vine Ranch, page 54.

Scotty's Ranch House

