2. Japanese industrial area, Kiska Harbor. Note seaplane fighters and midget submarine ramp. September 28, 1942.

Courtesy, National Archives

3. Japanese activities at Kiska Harbor, 1942 or 1943. The two buildings parallel to each other and facing the ponds, in the lower left corner of the photo, are believed to be those erected by the U.S. Navy for use as a weather station prior to Japanese invasion.

Courtesy, Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska

7. Japanese "victory garden" on North Head, Kiska. August 20, 1943.

Photo by U.S. Army Signal Corps. Courtesy, Defense Audiovisual Agency

3. Japanese activities at Kiska Harbor, 1942 or 1943. The two buildings parallel to each other and facing the ponds, in the lower left corner of the photo, are believed to be those erected by the U.S. Navy for use as a weather station prior to Japanese invasion.

Courtesy, Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska

Kiska Japanese Occupation Site, anti-aircraft guns, bombed Japanese freighter and wooden pier, Kiska Island, Alaska, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1974