STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Myrtle Hill Plantation House is one of the few remaining antebellum homes in DeSoto Parish. It was built by Edward Riggs, apparently shortly after 1852

Later Mr. Riggs sold the property to James Taylor Means who had lived at nearby Roseneath Plantation before his marriage.

During the years 1835 to 1840 some 13 families had come to this section of Louisiana from South Carolina and settled within one or two miles of each other. They were all planters, slave owners, and fairly well-to-do.

Two brothers named Robbins are said to have been "brought over from England" to build the homes of these families. The story goes that these two architect-master builders, for $500.00 in gold and "keep", would, with the available slave-labor, build the houses and remain for as many years as necessary to accomplish the assignment.

Because so few antebellum houses remain in this area, this structure with its Greek Revival features illustrates the adaptation of that style to the rural north Louisiana conditions and tastes of the middle of the 19th century. Right restaurant restau
