This is the oldest frame dwelling in Port Townsend. When renovating the interior of the house in the early 1920's, the the owner found that the foundation under the back portion still had bark on the old timbers. The back extention to the house was a summer kitchen with a large pantry. Beneath the kitchen was a cistern for water storage. Through the years as the building settled, the rim of the cistern came up through the floor.

The house was erected before 1865--how much earlier is not known, but it was still in the era of simple classic lines and appearance, There were decorative moldings in the living room and master's bedroom, and a built-in seat beside the solitary fireplace. One of the few concessions to ornament was a pulldown oil lamp with an etched bowl in the front hall.

The house still has some of the cloudy window panes of long ago.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Captain Enoch S. Fowler was in and out of the harbor of Port Townsend on some of the earliest vessels on Puget Sound. He was from Lubec, Maine and had come West to the California gold rush. He paid his first visit to the Sound in 1852, and retired from the sea in 1857.

Captain Fowler built Port Townsend's first dock at which a vessel could land safely; he constructed the stone building now occupied by The Leader Inc., the oldest business structure in Port Townsend. (1874), and promoted many other local enterprises until his death in 1876.

Early in 1854 he purchased the schooner R. B. Potter and chartered her to Governor Stevens as a mail and dispatch boat. After its release from territorial service he operated it as the first regular mail packet on the route between Olympia, Seattle, Port Townsend and Victoria.

The date of the actual building of his home is not listed, but it is known to be before the year 1865.
