The Old King's Highway Historic District is a linear district running the length of Route 6A, known historically as Old King's Highway or County Road. Encompassing an area of c.1150 acres, it includes all properties with frontage on the road, which is important historically in its own right. Rear lot lines form the northern and southern boundaries, while the Sandwich town line forms the western boundary, and the Yarmouth town line forms the eastern boundary. Included are 497 main buildings, approximately 300 outbuildings, 5 cemeteries, 28 monuments/markers/milestones, and 25 historic sites. Brief information on each is provided by the district data sheets. Generally, houses pre-dating 1930 are considered to contribute to the historic character of the area; barns also contribute, while garages and sheds generally do not. All cemeteries, monuments/markers/milestones and historic sites are considered contributing.

NATIONAL REGISTER CRITERIA STATEMENT (if applicable)

The Old King's Highway Historic District possesses integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling and association. It is significant as the town's original settlement and administrative center, as its population center until the mid 19th century, and for its strong associations with the important themes of agriculture, maritime activities, small-scale industrial development, and local and regional institutional growth. Many of Barnstable's most important historical figures resided and were active in the area as well. Finally, the area is significant for its architecture which represents a full range of types, construction dates and styles. Thus, the Old King's Highway Historic District meets criteria A, and C of the National Register of Historic Places and is judged to be significant on the local, regional, state and national levels.

ARCHITECTURAL SIGNIFICANCE Describe important architectural features and evaluate in terms of other areas within the community.

The Old King's Highway Historic District is a linear corridor that runs from the Sandwich town line on the west to the Yarmouth town line on the east, skirting the shore of Barnstable Harbor. The terrain it traverses is rocky, hilly and dotted with ponds. The road connects the town's two oldest, and northernmost villages: West Barnstable (W), and Barnstable Village (E). The town's first settlement occurred here because of available resources such as fresh and salt meadow hay from the Great Marshes, fresh water springs, ponds, large woodlots to the south, and the harbor to the north that provided direct maritime connections to the administrative centers of Plymouth and Boston. The first dwellings, constructed in the mid to late 17th century, were placed on six to twelve acre lots on the north, or harbor, side of the road; the southern side was common land, reserved for planting crops and woodlots until 1703.

The Old King's Highway was designated as the County Road in 1685, and it remained the town's administrative and population center until the early 19th century when activity began to HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE Explain historical importance of area and how the area relates to the development of other areas of the community.

Barnstable's earliest European settlement in the 1630s and 1640s was confined to the northern portion of the present town as defined by the Sandwich Moraine, an east-west ridge paralleling the present mid-Cape Highway. Initial settlement occurred here, on the Old King's Highway, due to the area's fertile soils, and an abundance of game and fish, as well as salt hay available in the area of the Great Marshes. An extensive harbor protected by the Sandy Neck barrier beach (Area BVG), and relatively direct maritime and overland connections to the established centers of Plymouth and Boston assured continued growth.

Although the earliest history of Barnstable is somewhat clouded, it is generally agreed that two short-lived settlements were made in 1637 and 1638 before a more permanent colony was established in 1639 in Barnstable Village at Cobbs Hill and Coggins Pond. Key figures in this later settlement, which numbered 41 families by 1640, were the Rev. John Lothrop, Deacon Henry Cobb, the Rev. Joseph Hull, and Thomas Dimmock. The settlement was solidified by Barnstable's formal incorporation as a town in 1639, by construction of the first meeting-house at Lothrop's Hill in 1646, and by purchase of additional lands to the west and east from Native Americans in 1644 and 1647. Referred to as the First and Second Purchases, these lands included all of the territory encompassed by the Old King's Highway Historic District.

Barnstable Village, and to a lesser extent West Barnstable, grew rapidly in the 17th century, reaching a population of 89 freemen voters (presumably with families) by 1670. The Old King's shift to the villages on the south side of town, especially Hyannis. Thus, a wide variety of building types and styles remain, with contributing resources dating from the 17th, 18th, 19th, and early 20th centuries. Representative structures are described below in chronological order.

BVE173- Allyn House (late 17th century). The core of this house is believed to have been built in the second half of the 17th century by James Allyn, on his father Thomas' original lot. It probably originated as a 1 and 1/2 story cottage, perhaps extended by a rear lean-to. Currently, it is 4 bays, 2 and 1/2 stories, with rear lean-to and ells; this appearance probably results from several expansions in the 18th and 19th centuries. An entry with narrow transom and molded lintel shelf, and a large chimney stack rising just behind the gable ridge, are offset to the east. Windows are set in heavy projecting frames and contain 12/12 double-hung sash; second story windows are set directly beneath the cornice. The facade is clapboard clad, while the other elevations and the rear ells are shingled.

BVC87- Old Barnstable County Jail (c1690). The Old Jail is a two story wood-frame building constructed on the plank frame system most commonly found in 17th and early 18th century Plymouth Colony. The plank system made minimal use of framing members, relying instead on thick (here 4") vertical planks to provide some of the structural stability. In this building, heavy shouldered posts, running the full two stories of the building, divide it into two uneven structural bays along its long sides. The posts are framed into sills, girts and plates. Between the posts are the vertical planks which are spiked to the sills, pinned to the girts, and fitted into deep grooves on the underside of the plates, as is typical of this type of construction. Unusual is the extreme thickness of the planks, and close spacing of the floor joists; both of these features probably reflect an adaptation to the building's specialized function as a place of incarceration. The Old Jail is now attached to half of a mid 18th century keeper's house. The entire structure is shingled over, including most of the window openings in both sections. The Old Jail was individually listed in the National Register on July 2, 1971.

BVA21- Gorham/Cobb House (pre-1717). Located in eastern Barnstable, in the section known as Cummaquid, the Gorham/Cobb House is a 2 and 1/2 story structure whose large chimney and entry are offset to the east. The entry is headed by a five-pane transom, pulvinated frieze, and molded lintel shelf. Second story windows are set directly beneath the cornice and all contain 6/6 double-hung sash. The house is shingled and extended by several later side and rear ells.

BVE140- James Paine House (c1717). Also known by the 20th century name of Captain Grey's Inn (for a mid 19th century owner), the Paine House is a 2 and 1/2 story, five bay structure sheathed with clapboards and enclosed by a shingled gable roof. A massive, pilastered chimney, rising through the gable ridge, is its most prominent feature. It also has an unusually wide central bay containing two windows at the second story. Second story windows are set beneath the cornice, and all windows contain 12/12 sash.

BVB61- Amos Otis House (c1745). This is a four bay cottage whose entry and massive chimney are offset to the east. Both its transomed entry and windows are simply framed and set beneath the cornice. The cottage is extended to the rear by a long, sloping, non-integral lean-to. This has special significance as the birthplace and home of Amos Otis, author of "Genealogical Notes of Staple to Inventory form at bottom Barnstable Families" (1888)

BVA42- Daniel Cobb House (c1790). This typical Federal period cottage has a five bay facade with center entry, and a gable roof with center chimney. The entry is headed by a transom, while windows with 6/6 double hung sash are set below the cornice; both have simple flat surrounds. The house sits on a low, rubble-stone foundation. Its facade is clapboarded, but other elevations are shingled.

BVB63- Jaquelin House (c1790). Also typical of the Federal period, this more elaborate two story, five bay house is enclosed by a fashionable low hip roof with end chimneys. Its entry is enframed by pilasters and a lintel shelf. Windows have flat surrounds and contain 6/6 double-hung sash. The main body of the house is clapboard clad. The house originally served as a stagecoach stop and inn.

WBC91- Meadow House (c1770-1790). Known by its mid 19th century tavern name, the Meadow House is similar to the Jaquelin House, but presents a slightly more old-fashioned appearance. This is seen in its steeper hip roof and paired interior chimneys, in its entry with transom and heavy molded surround, and in its windows containing 6/6 double-hung sash. It also retains the traditional wood shingle cladding.

BVE151- Hinckley/Crocker House (c1827). This is one of the most fully developed examples of the Federal style in the entire district. It is a two story structure enclosed by a low hip roof with end chimneys. It has windows with 6/6 double-hung sash and flat surrounds. What distinguishes it from other similar examples such as the Jaquelin House, is its entry with delicate fanlight, and open modillion pediment.

WBC77- Charles Gray House (c1853). The Charles Gray House is a Greek Revival style cottage of traditional form, meaning that its gable ridge continues to parallel the street. It has a three bay clapboarded facade with entry offset to the north. The entry is highlighted with fashionable sidelights, and pilasters carrying a lintel shelf. Windows are set below the cornice and contain 6/6 double-hung sash.

BVA12- John Hinckley House (c1853). The Hinckley House is another traditional example of the Greek Revival style, but has some very unusual features for Barnstable. It has a six bay facade, with twin entries flanking two central windows. These four openings are headed by a bracketed porch roof, above which rises a central cross gable. The house is shingled and paired interior chimneys rise through the gable ridge.

BVA41- Easterbrook/Percival House (c1843). This is a typical example of the sidehall plan popularized in conjunction with the Greek Revival style. By facing gable end to the street, even simple houses such as this one could assume a proper pedimented silhouette. This 2 and 1/2 story, clapboarded house also displays a well developed entry with sidelights, transom and cornerblock surround.

BVC82- Sylvanus B. Phinney House (c1830). Built by the town's customs collector and newspaper founder and publisher, the Phinney House has a four bay gable end facade, and is a variant of the wide-gable type. Completely clapboarded, this house features a hexagonal, bracketed cupola at the center of the roof ridge. Twin chimneys rise from each lateral side. An entry with sidelights and transom is located behind a later one story porch that extends across the facade. A handsome, gable end barn (BVC83) with similar cupola stands next to the house.

BVC81- Barnstable Academy (c1839). This is one of the town's few surviving examples of a 19th century private school. It is a 1 and 1/2 story temple front structure, whose overhanging gable pediment is supported on slender, fluted Doric columns. A single entry is centered on the five bay facade.

BVD105- Barnstable County Superior Courthouse (1831-32). Designed by noted architect, Alexander Parris, this handsome example of the Greek Revival style is executed in Quincy granite, with some trim (entablature with triglyphs and metopes) fashioned of wood painted to look like stone. Facing gable end to the street, the roof of this two story building is surmounted by an open cupola with shallow dome. Its overhanging gable pediment is supported on heavy fluted Doric columns. The wings that extend outward from the rear of the building were added in 1879. (NR: 6/11/81)

BVC88- U.S. District Seven Customs House/Post Office (1855-56). This is another well executed institutional building, this time designed in the Renaissance Revival style by the Federal Architect, Ammi B. Young. This cubic, three bay structure rises two stories to a hip roof that originally had a lower pitch, and was hidden behind a balustrade. It is constructed of red brick with cast iron trim and structural members. (NR: 11/12/75)

BVD112-Barnstable Institution for Savings (c1860). This building served as a bank until the depression of 1877 forced closure; it has contained offices for most of the time since then. Despite this long commercial history, its general appearance is one of a very stylish Italianate style residence. It is a 2 and 1/2 story structure facing gable end to the street. It is sheathed with clapboards and trimmed with quoins, brackets, dentils, molded arched and stilted window surrounds at the second story, and projecting window caps at the first story. A heavy, bracketed porch extends across the facade above two entries that are located in the outer bays. It is the double entries and the elaborate detail that distinguish the bank from period residences.

BVD122- Leslie F. Jones House (c1880). This 1 and 1/2 story cottage features extensive stickwork and brackets in its gables and dormers. A side porch is supported on carved posts while a bracketed shed roof extends across the facade above the entry and flanking bay windows.

BVC89- Unitarian Church of Barnstable (1905-07). This church was designed by Guy Lowell of Boston in the Colonial Revival style as the third replacement for the East Parish (First) Congregational Meetinghouse. It is a one story hip roof structure surmounted by a domed belfry with clock. The entry, which is centered on the facade, is set within an aedicular frame with Ionic columns in antis.

WBA19- Our Lady of Hope Catholic Church (1915). Designed by Matthew Sullivan, this small-scale Catholic church is one of a handful of buildings in the district constructed of brick. In this case, the brick came from the West Barnstable Brickyard (WBA35), also in the district. The design of the church was inspired by a church seen in the Basque area of the Iberian peninsula when visited by the Reverend Father George Downing. Built mainly to serve Portuguese farmers and fishermen, an anchor motif is employed in the stained glass windows and at the top of the cupola.

WBA15- First Lutheran Church (1924). This simple wood-frame, shingled church was constructed by Finnish immigrants who came to work in West Barnstable's fishing, cranberry, brickmaking, and agricultural industries. It is a one story structure enclosed by a gable roof extended on rafters. A projecting entry porch also has a roof with exposed rafters, and is surmounted by a tower with pyramidal cap.

Highway, which originated as a native trail and was designated as the County Road in 1685 (concurrent with formation of Barnstable County), served as the focus of the linear settlement with a few secondary roads, such as Scudder and Rendezvous Lanes and Mill Way, leading north to the harbor. A key factor in the subsequent growth of Barnstable was its designation as the county shire town in 1685, and the accompanying location of the first county courthouse near Pine Lane in 1686. The erection of two jails in Barnstable Village in the late 17th century (c1690) was probably related to these events.

By 1700, several taverns had been constructed along County Road in addition to houses and outbuildings, while warehouses and wharves had been constructed on the side roads leading to the harbor. Additionally, a windmill for grinding grain was constructed on Lothrop's Hill in 1687. Most inhabitants were engaged in farming, although an increasing number were employed in mercantile pursuits or in maritime activities such as fishing, whaling and coasting. A packet line was established between Barnstable and Boston during this period, further enhancing the dominant position of the Village area.

The 18th century was also a period of growth for Barnstable, initially signified by its division into East and West Parishes in 1715-1717. At that time, a new East Parish Meetinghouse was erected on Cobb's Hill as the community focus for Barnstable Village, and a West Parish Meetinghouse was erected on present Route 149 (Meetinghouse Way) to serve the emerging West Barnstable community. (see Area WBB)

By 1765, Barnstable's entire population had grown to 2,108 inhabitants, and by 1776 to 2,610. Although the southern sections of Barnstable had been colonized by that time, most of the population resided along the County Road in Barnstable Village and West Barnstable. The County Road at that time could be described as a dispersed linear settlement with nodes or clusters at Pond Village, the Village Center, and Cobb's Hill in Barnstable Village, as well as at Meetinghouse Way in West Barnstable. Agriculture dominated the economy, and the present appearance of Old King's Highway is greatly enhanced by the stone walls, barns and other outbuildings which remain as tangible reminders of the area's historic character.

The 19th century witnessed the gradual decline of Barnstable Village as the community, although never the County, focus began to shift southward to Hyannis. This reflected a concurrent economic shift from the small-scale farming activities nurtured by the rich soils of Barnstable, West Barnstable and Marstons Mills to large-scale maritime industries encouraged by a deep water harbor, as well as proximity to Antucket and fertile fishing grounds.

Nevertheless, the Old King's Highway remained the town's population center through the mid 19th century, especially in the vicinity of Barnstable Village Center, Coggins Pond and Meetinghouse Way. The introduction of the Cape Cod Branch Railroad in 1854, paralleling County Road in West Barnstable and Barnstable Village before turning sharply southward toward Hyannis at the Yarmouth line, led to limited growth but its impact on Hyannis was much more profound.

The building or remodeling of several institutional buildings in the mid 19th century indicate continued prosperity in the district at both the local and regional levels. For example, in 1831-32, the County erected a new courthouse after a disastrous fire destroyed the earlier structure. Located on a rise on the south side of the Old King's Highway in Barnstable Village Center, this monumental Greek Revival style structure was constructed of Quincy granite to the designs of nationally known architect, Alexander Parris. A few years later, in 1835, an Agricultural Fair Hall for the county was erected on the north side of the road, just east of Cobb's Hill. The following year, the East Parish Meetinghouse, on the north side of the road at Cobb's Hill, was replaced with a fashionable new wood-frame structure in the Gothic Revival style. In 1855, the United States government began construction of a Customs House/Post Office for the county on the opposite side of the road at Cobb's Hill. This fine brick and cast iron structure was designed by Federal Architect, Ammi B. Young in the Renaissance Revival style. The most important new construction at West Barnstable at this time, was the remodeling of the West Parish Meetinghouse of 1717 in the Classical Revival style.

Throughout the 19th century, especially during the second half, small-scale industries were developing in West Barnstable. These included agriculture, especially production of cranberries, brickmaking, and manufacture of hats, chairs, leather and pottery. The brickworks, established in 1878 as the West Barnstable Brickworks, were located in the district, on the north side of the road, just west of Parker Road. These industries attracted large numbers of Finnish and Portuguese immigrants in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

Today, the Old King's Highway and its immediate environs continue to reflect the area's traditional landscape of settlement clusters linked by ancient arteries of dispersed linear development characterized by homesteads historically associated with farming activities. This is largely due to the area's designation as a local historic district on May 1, 1973. Despite formation of a commission to oversee exterior changes in the district however, intense development pressures are threatening the traditional character of the area, especially its ancient division walls, outbuildings and large tracts of open space which are its most vulnerable elements.

Dear Ms. Shull:

I wish to express my support for the nomination of 75 homes and non-profit organizations as historical sites located on Route 6A in Barnstable Massachusetts.

The nominated are part of what is known as the Old Kings Highway District. Some of these sites date back to the mid 1600's. This stretch also represents one of the richest cultural areas of Cape Cod and still remains one of the most scenic routes in New England.

A permanent historical designation for the Old Kings Highway District is long overdue and well deserved. The homes and non-residential buildings are unique in design and hold in them the histories of some of the Cape's oldest families and their contribution to the health and vitality of the Town of Barnstable and the entire County of Barnstable.

I am very hopeful that the district will be added to the National Register of Historic Places. Such a designation will safeguard the beginning routes of Cape Cod and will ensure that the places that began our unique way of life will remain undisturbed.

Very truly yours,

PETER B. MORIN
