Ca. 1930 airview of property from approximately northeast. Park Avenue crosses view at lower left; Miller Street is at upper left. The Wiedemann House is at left center, with its one-story front porch facing north toward Cincinnati. The rose-garden terrace and swimming pool show at right center, against the wooded hillside at upper right. The railroad crosses under the trees at lower right.

View of hills southeast of Newport, looking southeast from southeast corner of 4th and York Streets in downtown Covington (opposite the Courthouse). The Wiedemann House, with its triangular gable and roof shape, is centered in the photograph, just under the brow of the hill, with the more modest residential development along the Park Avenue dip shown just to the left of it. The High School is the long low structure at the crest of the hill to the right.

View of north front (right) and east side from the northeast, ca. 1930. The dark coloring is probably original, with the woodwork harmonizing with the red brick and sandstone, whose details show particularly clearly in this view. The small missing gable abutting the northeast corner chimney also shows here.
