NARRATIVE DESCRIPTION

Number 10 Voting House is the only voting house still standing that has the exact measurements set down by the guidelines for all 17 stone voting houses by the project engineer. It is also the only remaining voting house that presents the entrance on the side elevation. The voting booth is located on a flat urban lot situated along a major road artery in the city of Morehead.

The single bay ashlar stone building with beaded board has exposed beams projecting under a replacement-shingle roof. The west elevation has three single 2' x 2' lights positioned high on the wall to give light, but also to give privacy to citizens who would vote in the three booths positioned under each window. A window with ½ lights is on the east gable end. The positioning of the window on the east gable end also deviates from the plan used for the other 11 voting houses, which has two windows positioned on opposite walls.

The voting booth's stove and chimney have been removed at an unknown date. The interior of the voting house has been remodeled with indoor-outdoor carpeting installed and wall board placed over the stone walls and ceilings.
