DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Old Town Hall is a large two-story brick building in late-Georgian, early-Federal style. The roof is surmounted by a large octagonal cupola; a wooden balustrade runs the entire width of the rooftop. Two chimneys rise above the roof at each end of the balustrade. A pediment which sets off the middle three bays of the building has a large clock face set into it. There is an ornamental wooden cornice in the pediment and across the front and back of the building. The first and second stories are separated on the facade by a thin band of marble belting, accentuated by a large marble block, inset in each bay. The large double doors on the first floor fritont are enclosed by a large marble, surrounded with a keystone. Windows mark each of the five bays of the facade. Those on the first floor are enclosed in arched openings; and those on the second floor are rectangular and are surmounted by brick flat arches. All of the windows have marble keystones.

The sides of the building are plain, except for the stairs leading from ground level down to the cellar doors. The back of the building has a halfoctagonal bow extending outward.

The roof is neither a true gambrel nor a pitched roof. The gently sloping roof ends in a slightly bowed flat on which sits the cupola. There is only one other known example of this in Delaware. The pattern of the first floor windows is repeated in the Keystoned arched openings of the cupola. The cornice is similar in style though not in scale to the main cornice. Under the cornice is found a border with swags in the Adamesque style, rather than the Wall of Troy found on the main cornice.

The only departure from the original exterior appearance of the Old Town Hall has been the addition of a small brick room added to the southeast corner. The interior has been restored under the direction of Lee Nelson. Well over 50% of the exterior and interior fabric is original.

The Old Town Hall is the only surviving 18th Century public building in Wilmington. It housed the Wilmington city government until 1916. It is an excellent example of late-Georgian, early-Federal architecture, and is comparable to Old City Hall, Congress Hall, and Carpenter's Hall in Philadelphia. Aside from its'importance as the seat of city government, the Old Town Hall served as a focal point of many public events in Delawares history. Several United States Presidents, including Jefferson, J.Q. Adams, Jackson, and William Henry Harrison visited the Old Town Hall. A grand banquet for Lafayette was held in the building in 1824 during the French hero's triumphant return tour of the United States. Public meetings in Wilmington were always held in the Old Town Hall, and virtually every important Delawarean, as well as visiting national figures, spoke in, visited, or were feted in the building between the time it was built and the late 19th century.

The Old Town Hall was also the site of the Wilmington City Prison until the mid-l9th century. The original cells in the building's cellar offer an opportunity to examine one facet of early American penology.
