There are three Corinthian tetrastyle entrances to this courthouse. One simpler side entrance only has 4 Corinthian pilasters. All entrances are pedimented. Pavilions project from a core; a domed clock tower with lantern rises in three stages. An iron fence surrounds the courthouse. Original wooden doors are at the entries; marble wainscoting is about 4' high in the hallway on the first floor.

The courtroom has a lowered ceiling; the old pressed metal has been replaced by acoustical tile. Behind the simple bench is an arched stained glass window proclaiming "wisdom, justice and moderation". The balcony is enclosed. Walls are plaster with a wooden wainscoting. A small holding cell is in the hall behind the bench.
