Beginning at A, NE of the house at the lane, thence S 550 ft to B at a woods, thence along edge of woods W 710 ft to C at the lane, thence west lane N 460 ft to D, and S 550 ft to the beginning, containing the stone kitchen and frame house.

(Quarters drastically remodelled and part of another property.)
 Other original farm buildings are gone.

1 contrib. bldg. with non contributing hyphen.

44. Description and House Plan:

One-story, single-cell, dry-stone kitchen, 16 x 18. Coursed masonry in rows of unequal height, some broken courses. Exterior shouldered chimney in east gable end. One window with nine voussoirs on each side; frames changed. Exterior was whitewashed. Interior not seen.

Built as separate kitchen for 1787 brick house which later burned and was replaced by the present late 19th century frame T-house. Connected to house by enclosed hyphen in 20th century which does not impact the integrity of the kitchen.

Located on top of hill above Frog Hollow, a branch of Beech Fork, on prosperous early plantation. Remnants of rock fences and mill foundation are nearby. A two-room central chimney stone quarters is just north of the house, but has been incorporated into a larger modern house. The family cemetery is on the property.

Now part of a vast dairy farm.
