DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Faulkner County Library, built in 1895 as the Faulkner County Jail, is a rectangular (26' x 23') structure with tower. The two storey building is masonry with a stucco finish. There are four windows on each facade with the two lower ones being slightly off set. Windows have stone lintels and sills, and are six-over-six lights. The main entrance to the building is a slightly projecting Roman arch. The foundation is of rusticated stone. The building has a corbeled cornice which terminates at the corners in smooth finished pilasters. The hipped roof once composed of tin shingles with tower finial and roof cresting is now composition shingles. An awning now leads to the front entrance and there has been the addition of shutters.

The first annex was constructed in 1958 and measures 40' x 36' and is located on the northeast. Another annex was added in 1964 measuring 64' x 32' on the southwest. Both additions are painted concrete block.

The first floor is divided into four (4) sections. The second floor contains one (1) section. The tower contains the original winding stairway.

The Faulkner County Jail has had one major alteration in the removal of the front porch. The building is stuccoed but early photographs and the specifications, indicate that the structure was originally stuccoed. An addition on the back, composed of concrete block seems incompatable, however, this addition cannot be read from the street. The additions were necessary for the sturcture to continue its function as the county library. At present, there are plans being formulated concerning restoration of the original section of the building.

SPECIFIC DATES 1896 BUILDER/ARCHITECT A. N. Miller

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The October, 1895 term of Faulkner County Court made an appropriation of $2,110.00 for the purpose of building a county jail. The court then appointed J. A. Pence, Commissioner of County Jails. Pence instigated a competition from which the design of A. N. Miller, architect, was selected. On April 6, 1896, bids were advertised in the Conway Democrat and Log Cabin, two weekly newspapers printed and published in the county. On June 22, 1896, sealed proposals were received and reviewed. Bids were awarded as follows: $2,300.00 to J. M. Courtney and T. B. Rice for the completion of the building, and $117.25 to Pauly Jail Building and Manufacturing Company of St. Louis for iron works in cells, window guards, doors, sewer and water pipes.

In 1934, the American Legion took as its national project "Aid to Libraries." When it was learned that the Economic Recovery Act was providing funds to establish libraries, the Conway unit of the legion auxilliary applied for such a project in Faulkner County. The E. R. A. agreed to pay $53.00 a month salary to a librarian. The library then had to obtain 535 volumes before June 10, 1935, which it did through gifts to the library. In 1939, the library, now with 637 volumes, moved to the Old Jail which was renovated, remodeled and furnished with Works Projects Administration funds. The Arkansas Library Commission gave the institution $10,000 for the purchase of books. A one (1) mill tax was voted in 1954 for the support and maintenance of the library. There have been two expansions. A 40' x 36' addition was built in 1958 and in 1964 a 64' x 32' structure was added.

The roof, once Courtright pattern tin shingles, is now composition. Roof cresting and finials are gone. The shed porch which runs across the south from the tower to the end of that facade was removed by the W. P. A., and the building was stuccoed. The interior of the building was completely remodeled in 1938 and there are no traces of the jail fixtures.

This structure is now the oldest remaining publicly owned building in Faulkner County. It is well documented. The specifications are on file in the Faulkner County Courthouse, (Book No. 9, Page 464). They attest to this building's structural stability.

Re: Faulkner County Library
Conway, Faulkner County

Dear Mrs. Reid:

The staff of the Arkansas Historic Preservation Program is preparing a National Register nomination for the Faulkner County Library which will be presented to the Arkansas State Review Committee at their September meeting. If approved, the nomination will be submitted to the National Register office in Washington for final consideration.

The National Register of Historic Places is a listing of historic sites, buildings, objects, and districts from all across the country that are worthy of preservation.

Entry in the National Register is an honor which places no obligation on a private owner. It does, however, provide protection through comment by the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation from federally financed, assisted or licensed projects that might affect a National Register property.

On October 4, 1976, the President signed a Tax Reform Act of which Section 2124 refers to tax incentives for historic properties. Enclosed you will find an information sheet on that tax act.

If you have any questions concerning the program or this property's nomination, please contact Dianna Kirk of our staff.

Enclosed are two copies of this letter. Please complete the form below, sign and return the original to our office. The copy is for your files. We would appreciate receiving any comments you might have concerning the nomination of this property. If we do not hear from you within 30 days, your approval will be assumed.

Sincerely,

Barbara Woodard

Barbara Woodard, Deputy Director
Arkansas Historic Preservation Program

I approve of the nomination of the above property to the National Register of Historic Places
