Narrative Description

The Overstreet School Historic District is a residential neighborhood of late nineteenth and early twentieth century houses located immediately south of the central business district of Starkville, Mississippi. The visual and institutional center of the neighborhood is Overstreet Elementary school, which was originally built in 1897 as the Starkville Public School, on a site previously occupied by a private school. Overstreet School was enlarged in 1924 and substantially remodeled in 1949, and has had some additions since then, but it remains the focal point of the neighborhood.

The district is an irregularly-shaped area bounded on the north by the tracks of the Illinois Central Railroad (except for the northernmost block of Washington Street, which is north of the tracks). The railroad and the industrial buildings alongside it separate the district from downtown Starkville. To the east and west of the district are mostly newer buildings. To the south the neighborhood is bounded by some relatively recent apartment buildings and by commercial properties adjacent to Mississippi Highway 12, located one block further south.

The district is arrayed primarily along three major north-south streets (South Washington, South Jackson, and South Montgomery) and one main east-west street (East Gillespie). Connecting with these are two smaller north-south streets (South Lafayette and Worley) and four smaller east-west streets (Hogan, Green, McKinley, and East Wood), forming a loose, irregular grid. Although street-widening has removed the trees that shaded South Jackson and part of Gillespie, the other streets retain canopies of shade trees. The terrain is gently rolling.

Apart from the school, all the contributing buildings in the district were built as single-family or multi-family residences and outbuildings. Dating from about 1870 to about 1940, they are mostly one-story wood-frame houses, with a few two-story houses and a few brick or brick-veneer houses scattered among them. These houses stand on lots of various sizes, and the setbacks and yard sizes also vary.

The oldest houses are largely "Victorian Vernacular" in architectural character: modest houses displaying simplified interpretations of Queen Anne, Carpenter's Gothic, or Italianate detailing, mostly showing some later alterations. The most imposing of these late Victorian houses is the C. M. Gay House (#6) at 110 East Gillespie, a two-story wood-frame house with modest Queen Anne features, built in 1895. About ten percent of the houses in the district are Colonial Revival buildings dating from around the first decade of the twentieth century. Most notable among these are the Judge T. B. Carroll House (#53) at 304 South Jackson, built about 1906, and the Judge W. W. Magruder House (#55) at 306 South Jackson, built about 1902. About twenty-seven percent of the houses in the area are bungalows displaying elements of the Craftsman style, some of which have classical elements as well. Among the more notable bungalows are at 303 South Jackson (#52), 507 South Jackson (#68a), and 401 Hogan (#43). The district also contains a variety of houses built in the 1930s.

Several of the houses in the district retain historic outbuildings, including cook's houses (such as those at 401 East Gillespie and 301 South Washington), garages, and a barn. Only the most evident and noteworthy outbuildings have been included in the district inventory. Some minor sheds and other outbuildings have been deliberately omitted from the list, and it is possible that some potentially contributing outbuildings may have been inadvertently left out.

About a third of the buildings within the district have been rated as noncontributing. Most of these are houses built between about 1945 and 1975. While these houses do not contribute to the character of the district, they do not seriously detract from it. Also rated as noncontributing are some older houses that have been extensively altered in recent years to the extent that their historic character is not readily apparent. There are several newer, intrusive apartment buildings as well, but they are relatively small and do not detract substantially from the character of the district.

INVENTORY OF BUILDINGS IN THE DISTRICT

Buildings within the district are listed here and rated as either contributing (C) or noncontributing (N). Contributing buildings are those that date from the period of significance of the district (1870 to 1940) and retain enough of their historic appearance to add to the district's sense of historical identity. Noncontributing buildings are those which either post-date the period of significance or older buildings that have been so extensively altered that their historic character is not readily apparent.

- 7a. C 111 McCreight House. One-story, rectangular, bungalow on brick foundation. Roof has jerkin-head gable on front and is hipped at rear. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with 4/1 double-hung windows and a multi-light door. Porch wraps facade (on south and part of east elevation) and is supported by short box columns on brick pedestals. Built before 1935. Contributing.
- 7b. C Outbuildings include a hip-roofed garage/storage building
7c. C and a smokehouse. Both are contributing.
8. C 201 Modest one-story, rectangular, gable-front house on brick foundation. Two-bay facade (D, W) with 6/6 double-hung windows. Synthetic shingle siding. Built c. 1940. Contributing.
9. C 202 Sullivan-Lanier House. Two-story, gable-and-wing eclectic Victorian Vernacular frame house, on brick piers. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with 4/4 double-hung windows. Window at right rear of porch has a peaked architrave. Other surrounds have molded architraves except main door, which has round-arched top, and a fan overlight with keystone. Secondary door (in west side of entry) is four-panel wood under a two-light transom. One-story porch with bungalow box columns on brick pedestals extends across facade. Upper porch has been enclosed. Jigsaw "gingerbread" vergeboards along gables and eaves. Built c. 1880. House contributes pivotally to district. (Photo 11)
10. N 203 One-story frame "Cape Cod" house on brick foundation, with bungalow details. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with paired 3/1 double-hung windows and a three-light paneled door sheltered by a small gabled porch. Siding appears to be Masonite. Probably built in late 1940s. Noncontributing.
11. C 203B Very modest one-story, rectangular, two room cottage on brick foundation. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with 3/1 windows. Off-center gabled porch roof is supported by wooden brackets. Built c. 1940. Contributing.

12. C 205 One-and-a-half-story irregularly-massed Victorian Vernacular house of wood frame construction, on brick foundation. Hip-and-gable roof with boxed cornice returns. Extensive veranda shown on 1918 Sanborn map was removed in the mid 1980s when the house was subdivided into apartments. Windows in projecting gable are narrow 1/1 double-hung lights. The window to the right of the door is a narrow 2/2 double-hung; single-light panelled door surmounted by single-light transom. Paired and quadrupled windows at the second level are 1/1 double-hung. Small hip-roofed corner porches are supported by single Tuscan columns. Local history says the house was built early in the 20th century (c. 1900-1910) by Hugh Styles, who moved in from the family place at Sessums to own and operate a grocery store in town. Contributing.
13. N 300 One-story, rectangular, gable-roofed brick or brick-veneered house on a slab foundation. Entry is through a pergola porch with lattice sides. Built in 1950s or 60s. Noncontributing.
14. C 302 One-story, frame, irregularly-massed bungalow with classical details. Hipped roof has off-center front gable. 2/2 double-hung windows. The full-length front porch has square brick piers on brick pedestals at the ends and two Tuscan columns on brick pedestals. Built about 1905-10. Contributing.
15. C 304 One-story, irregularly-massed, pyramidal and gable-roofed frame house in vaguely Colonial Revival style, on brick piers. Facade has 2/2 double-hung window and a one-light paneled door. The porch, which extends across facade (north) and part of east side, has square box columns and a stock balustrade. This house was owned in 1935 by W. W.

Richey, who served as Town Marshall for several terms.
Built about 1905-20. Contributing.

16. C 305 One-story, pyramidal-roofed, frame house with Colonial Revival details. Three-bay facade (W, D, W). Door is flanked by sidelights. Windows have a short, diamond-paned upper sash over a large single-light lower sash. The low roof of the attached porch is supported on square box columns. Carport has been built (at east end of porch) where porch floor and supports have been altered. The house was built by local contractor George C. Lanier about 1907; but sold to the J. A. McKees, and then to John Long, who served as Oktibbeha County Chancery Clerk for three terms. Contributing. (Photo 12)
- 17a. N 306 One-story, rectangular house with side-gabled roof and stone-vener walls. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with 6/6 double-hung windows and screened porch (at the east side). Central entrance has portico with two stone piers. Probably built in late 1940s. Noncontributing.
- 17b. N At rear of the main house is a small, one-story apartment of wood construction. Noncontributing.
18. C 308 Sellars Kennard House. Very intact one-story hip-roofed, irregularly-massed Colonial Revival bungalow. Two corbelled-top brick chimneys and a gable-roofed dormer pierce the roof. A low roofed porch wraps across north facade and along eastern side to a hip-roofed ell. Porch has wide plain frieze, paired Tuscan colonnettes on brick pedestals, and a low brick parapet with concrete coping. Windows in dormer are fixed nine-lights. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with 1/1 double-hung windows, door with one long bevelled light over a paneled bottom. Built c. 1915 for Sellars Kennard. Contributing.
- 19a. C 311 J. D. Kennard House. One-and-a-half-story, irregularly-massed, Colonial Revival house with hipped roof, on brick foundation. Five-bay facade (W, W, D, W, W). Left-most window has leaded shallow top pane over wide, one-light bottom. Other front windows are 1/1 double-hung. Entry has a one-light paneled door in a surround with leaded sidelights, separate overlights and transom lights. Low-roofed porch that extends across the front (south) and part of east elevations has slender wooden Tuscan columns and balustrade with spindles. A hip-roofed dormer is centered over the entry. Rear has hip-roofed extensions and rear porch. This very important example of Colonial Revival style has been clad in vinyl siding, but retains its historic character otherwise. The house was built c. 1906 for J. D. Kennard, who moved into town from the Oktoc area. He became a founder of the Security State Bank. Contributing. (Photo 13)

- 19b. C A gabled, board-and-batten smokehouse survives to the north. (The other outbuildings originally associated with 311 E. Gillespie are now on the property of 401 E. Gillespie, next door.) Contributing.
20. C 320 One-story, irregularly-massed, Victorian Vernacular house with hipped-and-gabled roof, on brick piers with stuccoed foundation wall. Porch has been enclosed with new windows, new door and surrounding lights. A porch with metal supports extends across the gabled projecting bay. Front gables have wide fascia boards and cutwork gable ornaments. Shed-roofed additions have been made to rear, and more recently a screened patio enclosure was added. Built about 1895-1905. Contributes only marginally because of alterations.
- 21a. C 401 One-and-a-half-story, rectangular, Craftsman-style house with side-gabled roof and shed dormers, on brick foundation. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with 12/1 double-hung windows, and a multi-light Craftsman-style door. A large shed-roofed dormer with 12/1 windows is centered over the porch. The porch has a wide, plain frieze and slender Tuscan colonnettes on brick pedestals. Has been clad in vinyl siding, but retains its historic character otherwise. Local tradition says that this house was built by J. D. Kennard, c. 1925 as house for sons attending Mississippi State University. Contributing. (Photo 14)

Behind the house at 401 East Gillespie are two outbuildings originally associated with 311 East Gillespie, next door:

- 21b. C One-room frame cook's house. Two-bay facade (W, D) with 4/4 double-hung window and four-panel door. Door and window surrounds have peaked architraves. Corners have pilasters with molded capitals. Cornice returns are boxed. An exterior end chimney on the south has been enclosed by a shed-roofed storage area. Contributing. (Photo 15)
- 21c. C The only remaining barn in the district (located to the north of the cook's house) is now in deteriorated condition. Contributing. (Photo 16)
22. C 403 One-story, irregularly-massed, frame, Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers. Three-bay facade (W, D, WW) with 2/2 double-hung windows and a paneled door with stained glass light surmounted by a two-light transom. A gable is centered over the entrance. A porch with chamfered posts and a stock railing extends across the front (south) and part of the east side. A deck extends from the end of the porch on the eastern side to most of the way across the northern rear. An addition was made on the north in 1988-89. Has been clad in vinyl siding but otherwise retains much of its historic appearance. Built c. 1906 by Ola Davis, an early 20th century street commissioner. Contributing.
- 23a. C 405 One-story, irregularly-massed, Victorian Vernacular house with extensive alterations. Brick skirting has been added. Windows and door on facade have been replaced. Porch in angle to right of projecting gable is shed-roofed and has replacement concrete floor. Remnants of Victorian detail include boxed cornice returns, corner boards, and diamond shaped attic window with Queen Anne lights. Built c. 1900. Contributing.

- 23b. C A deteriorated cook's house survives to rear (north). Contributes only marginally because of alterations.
24. N 409 One-story, irregularly-massed, frame house on concrete block foundation. Roof has multiple gables. Facade is dominated by a slightly projecting central block containing the entry door and a tripartite window. Synthetic shingle siding. Appears to have been built in 1950s. Noncontributing.

Green Street

25. N 300-302 One-story, rectangular, brick-veneer apartment house on slab foundation. Twelve-bay facade partially covered by a shallow porch. Built c. 1970. Intrusively noncontributing.
26. C 304 One-story, frame, gable-and-wing Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers with lattice and concrete block infill. The projecting gabled bay has a pair of slender 2/2 double-hung windows. The original door and surround have been moved to front of former porch which is now enclosed. Shed-roofed extension has been made to rear (south). Built c. 1900. Contributes only marginally because of alterations.
27. N 308 Extensively altered one-and-a-half-story irregularly-massed frame house (facing north) with multiple hipped roofs. Synthetic shingle siding. At the right side of the facade is a two-story block that projects slightly from the rest of the house. This projecting block has paired double-hung windows on both stories. In the center of the facade are a two-light, six-panel door and a single double-hung window. At the left of the facade is an open carport on metal supports. Believed to have been built about 1917, but is now a noncontributing element because of its extensive changes.

28. C 309 One-story, irregularly-massed hip-roofed frame Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers with brick infill. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with 1/1 windows. Centered cross-gable over entrance. Front porch has lathe-turned posts and stock balustrade. The porch is reached by a long flight of steps. Built about 1910. Contributing.
- 29a. C 310 One-story, gable-front frame house with some Victorian Vernacular and some Craftsman details. Windows are 2/2 and 4/4 double-hung. Projecting from front is a small gable-front bay, to the right of which is a small porch with chamfered posts and weatherboard parapet walls. At rear, house has a small two-story addition with one-story shed rooms on west and south. Apparently built about 1900-1910 and enlarged in the 1920s or 30s. Contributing.
- 29b. C A gabled, frame smokehouse/storage building in deteriorated condition is located to rear of house. Contributing.
30. C 400 One-story, irregularly-massed frame house with Victorian Vernacular details, on brick piers. Very similar in appearance to the house at 309 Green Street (#28, above). Built c. 1910 by Barrantine family. Contributing. (Photo 17)
31. N 402 One-story, frame, gable-roofed house on brick foundation. Facade has wing projecting toward street from gabled main section. Entrance is off to the side of a gabled porch with iron supports. Synthetic shingle siding. Built in 1950s. Noncontributing.
32. C 406 One-story, gable-front-and-wing, Victorian Vernacular house on brick foundation. Facade has two front gables; the walls and gable of the projecting cutaway bay are clad in imbricated shingles. Single-leaf four-panel door with round-arched lights in the top two panels, surmounted by a two-light transom. Porch has square battered columns on brick pedestals and a low brick balustrade. Built 1880-90; porch remodeled about 1920. Contributing. (Photo 18)

33. C 410 One-story, rectangular frame bungalow with side-gabled roof, on brick piers. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW). Windows are 6/6 double-hung. Door is multi-light. Gabled center front porch has shallow arches supported by short tapered box columns on brick pedestals, and a low, slotted brick balustrade. Carport attached at right (southwest) rear. Built after 1935 (according to city map of that year) but before 1940. Contributing.
34. C 411 Small frame bungalow with rear addition. Hipped roof with centered front gable. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with 4/4 double-hung windows. Shed-roofed porch is supported on square brick piers. Built c. 1930. Contributing.
35. N 412 One-story, rectangular, side-gabled frame house on brick foundation. Synthetic shingle siding. Four-bay facade (W, W, D, W). Windows are 6/6 and 8/8 double-hung. Small gabled porch roof over entrance, supported by brackets. Built c. 1950. Noncontributing.
36. C 415 One-story, front-gabled frame house on brick foundation. Originally rectangular in shape but later enlarged. Synthetic shingle siding. Entry door opens off to one side of the porch, which is set into the left corner of the facade. Porch has iron supports, concrete floor and steps. Apparently built in 1930s with some later alterations. Marginally contributing.

Hogan Street

37. C 306 One-story, hip-roofed, irregularly-massed Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers. Chimneys have been removed. Four-bay facade (WW, W, D, W) with 1/1 and 3/1 double-hung windows and a one-light transom over the door. Hip-roofed dormers with triple 3/1 windows are centered on front and rear roof planes (on north and south). Shed-roofed louvered vents are located on east and west. 38. C 307 One-story, frame, T-shaped, gable-and-wing Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers. Gabled projecting wing has one 2/2 window. Within the porch area are a pair of 2/2 windows and the entry door. The shed roof of the porch is supported on slender Tuscan columns. The gable ends have boxed cornice returns. Appears to have been built about 1900. Contributing.
- 39a. C 309 One-story, rectangular, frame vernacular bungalow. Pyramidal roof; undercut corner porch with three box columns. 4/1 double-hung windows and two-light transom over entrance. Built c. 1915, the house was owned by the Illinois Central railroad at the time of the 1935 map. Contributing.
- 39b. C One-story, hip-roofed smokehouse is located to the northwest. Contributing.
- 39c. N A modern garage has been constructed to the east. Noncontributing.
40. C 310 One-story, hip-and-gable-roofed, irregularly-massed, frame Victorian Vernacular house. Projecting gabled bay has 1/1 window. Shed-roofed porch has one Tuscan colonnette on a brick pedestal. Local oral tradition says the house was built for J. Wirt Carpenter about the time of his wedding to Iris Richey, November 25, 1897. Carpenter served as President of Security State Bank in the first third of the 20th century and was an active civic leader and town promoter. Contributing.
41. C 311 One-and-a-half-story, irregularly-massed with brick-veneer exterior and wood-clad gables and dormer. Paired windows at right of entry porch are 3/1 double-hung; paired windows on projecting bay to left of entry porch are 1/1. Entry porch has shed-roof supported by timber posts. Porch to far right has been enclosed. Original porte cochere intact at left (west) side of house. Built between 1935 and 1940. Contributing despite some alterations.

42. N 400 One-story, rectangular frame house on brick piers, formerly similar to 406 Hogan Street but now extensively altered so that no original details survive. Clad in aluminum siding. Originally built about 1930 but it has lost its original appearance. Noncontributing.
43. C 401 One of the most intact bungalows in the district, this one-story, frame, rectangular house was built for the Borden plant manager during the first third of the 20th century. The architectural character is Craftsman style with some classical detailing. House sits back from street in large yard shaded by oaks and pecans. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with wide 6/1 windows and a central door with multi-light sidelights. Low hipped roof with ventilation dormers on front and rear (south and north) elevations. Brick veneer covers all but front elevation. Built c. 1926. An important contributing element. (Photo 20)
- 44a. C 404 One-story, frame, multi-gabled house with English Cottage style influences. Three-bay facade (WWW, D, WW) with 6/6 double-hung windows and a paneled door with a row of small top lights. Entry porch has double projecting gables over concrete stoop, synthetic shingle siding. Built c. 1940 as a retirement home by Dr. L. L. Patterson, for whom Mississippi State University's Patterson Lab is named. Contributing.

- 12/12 double-hung windows. Entry porch has curved roof with sunburst design, wooden frieze, and heavy ornate brackets. Gables have knee braces. Built in 1920s or early 30s. Contributing.
- 50b. C One-story garage at rear (east) has details matching house. Contributing.
51. C 302 One-story, frame, roughly symmetrical bungalow on brick piers. Main square pyramidal roof has centered dormers on north and south side elevations, and central gabled front porch with square brick piers. Five-bay facade (WW, D, D, W, WW). 6/6 double-hung windows and multi-light doors. Built c. 1940. Contributing.
52. C 303 An unaltered, albeit somewhat deteriorated, one-story, irregularly-massed Craftsman-style bungalow with multi-gabled roof and brick foundation. One exterior end chimney and one interior chimney remain. Transverse-gabled porch extends across front (west) and around part of (north) side, supported by short, tapered, panelled box columns on brick pedestals. 4/1 double-hung windows and a multi-light door. Open rectangular knee braces ornament the gables. Probably built in 1920s. Contributing. (Photo 22)
53. C 304 Thomas Battle Carroll House. Two-story, irregularly-massed, Colonial Revival house with hipped-and-gabled roofs, elaborate porches and classical details. Built c. 1906. (Listed on National Register in 1991.) A pivotally-contributing element of the district.
54. C 305 Mallard House. One-story, irregularly-massed, frame Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers. Chimneys have been removed from multi-gabled roof. Five-bay facade (Bay, D, W, W, Bay) with 4/4 segmentally-arched double-hung windows. The single-leaf four-panel door is surmounted by a segmental arched transom that does not extend over the flanking, flat-topped sidelights. Probably built about 1880. Contributing. (Photos 23, 24) is supported by 4" X 4" posts and has a concrete floor. A small gabled extension has been added at the rear (northwest) corner. Noncontributing.

80. C 321 Robert Weir House. One-story, irregularly-massed, Victorian Vernacular house with hipped-and-gabled roof, on brick piers with brick infill. Five-bay facade (W, W, D, WW, W). Windows are 2/2 double-hung. Porch set in angle of facade to the right of the projecting gabled bay has metal supports and wooden floor. The house is finished with boxed cornice returns and corner boards. Several original mantels remain inside, although chimneys have been closed off and gas heaters have been installed in fireplace openings. The house was built about 1909 and was sold in 1922 to the late Robert Weir, the only black businessman to own and operate a business on Main Street during the years prior to World War II. Weir's barber shop, started before 1920, ran until he retired in 1979. Weir was active in civic affairs and was a stockholder in the National Bank of Commerce and the Chester Hotel (now the Ivy Guest House.) Mrs. Sadye Weir, a graduate of Talladega College, taught at Henderson School for several years before becoming Oktibbeha County's first black Home Demonstration Agent -- a job she held for more than 30 years. Contributing. (Photo 34)
81. N 322 One-story, roughly-symmetrical frame house on brick foundation, with brick skirting across lower portion of facade. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW). Windows are 2/2 double-hung aluminum sash. The front-gabled porch is carried on iron supports and has concrete floor. Although it may have been built by 1935, it has no appreciable historic character and is rated noncontributing.
82. N 323 One-story, front gabled, frame house on concrete foundation. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with aluminum windows. Built about 1970. Noncontributing.

93. C 300 Two-story, pyramidal-roofed, cubical, frame apartment house on brick foundation. On the facade is a two-tiered gallery with square posts. The lower level has a concrete floor. The facade has one 2/2 window and one door on each level. Stairs to second-story apartment are on north elevation. A metal carport has been added on the rear. Built between 1910 and 1930 as a rental unit by Montgomery family. Contributing.
94. C 301 One-story, irregularly-massed, frame English Cottage style house. Two chimneys survive, one at intersecting gables on facade, one at rear of main gable. The facade is dominated by a gabled projection on the right containing paired 6/6 windows and an arched corner porch over the entrance. To the left are the front chimney and another 6/6 window. Probably built between 1935 and 1940. Contributing.
95. C 302 One-story, pyramidal-roofed, Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers. Facade has been altered to enclose part of the recessed porch. Windows are 1/1 double-hung. Centered gable-roofed dormer on front has louvered vents. Shed-roofed additions have been made at rear. Built about 1905-1920. Contributes only marginally because of alterations.
96. N 303 One-story, irregularly-massed, multi-gabled frame house on brick foundation. A large gabled addition has been made to rear, perpendicular to main gable. Three-bay facade (W, D, WW) with 8/8 double-hung windows and multi-light paneled door. The shed-roofed porch is supported on metal posts. One exterior chimney remains (on south). Synthetic shingle siding. Appears to be post World War II construction. Noncontributing.
97. C 304 One-story, irregularly-massed, frame Victorian Vernacular house on brick piers. Roof is hipped-and-gabled; chimneys have been removed. The shed-roofed porch is supported on attenuated Tuscan columns. On north elevation, eaves are boxed, cornice returns. Several shed-roofed additions have been made on rear. Carport has been added on north. Built about 1905-15 by the Montgomery family. Contributing.

98. C 305 One-story, irregularly-massed frame house on brick foundation. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with 6/6 double-hung windows. Door is centered under a small portico with square posts. Central gable behind portico has denticulated cornice. Appears to have been built between 1935 and 1940. Contributing.
99. C 306 One-story, rectangular frame house on brick piers. Hipped-and-gabled roof has centered gable behind a shed-roofed porch supported on square columns. Four-bay facade (W, D, D, W) with large 6/6 double-hung windows and one-light paneled doors, the right-hand door being a later insertion. The original entry surround has one-light sidelights over paneled aprons but no transom. Built c. 1900. Contributing. (Photo 38)
100. N 307 One-story, rectangular apartment building on slab foundation, with gabled roof and board-and-batten siding. Built c. 1960. Noncontributing.
101. C 308 One-story, frame, pyramidal-roofed house, now irregularly-massed due to large two-story addition to north and additions on rear (west). Three-bay facade (W, W, D) with 1/1 double-hung windows and one-light paneled door with filled-in one-light transom. A wide, pedimented portico, supported on slender Tuscan columns, covers most of the facade. Built between 1905 and 1920 but subsequently remodeled and enlarged to such an extent that it contributes only marginally.

104. C 311 One-story, irregularly-massed frame house with multi-gabled roof, on brick foundation. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with 6/6 double-hung windows and multiple-light paneled door sheltered by a small portico. Synthetic shingle siding. Built c. 1940. Contributing.
105. C 400 One-story, side-gabled frame house facing east. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with 1/1 double-hung windows, multi-light door with one-light transom. Shed-roofed porch covers central two-thirds of facade and has bungalow-type short tapered box columns on brick pedestals. Shed-roofed extensions and carport have been added to rear (west). Now clad in aluminum siding. According to the 1910 Sanborn map, this was the only house on the west side of Montgomery in this block at the time. Contributes marginally.
106. C 401 One-story, irregularly-massed, frame bungalow on brick foundation. Facade (facing west) is dominated by a projecting hip-roofed porch, now partially screened in, that wraps around the north elevation. The southern part of the porch shelters the entrance and a pair of 4/1 Craftsman-style windows. Another pair of these windows is located beyond the porch to the right (toward the south). The porch has tapered box columns on brick pedestals. The walls are clad in narrow novelty siding. Built c. 1927 by Willis G. Bell, late husband of present owner. Contributing. (Photo 40)

107. C 402 One-story, rectangular, gable-front frame bungalow, now clad in aluminum. A gable-front porch with square brick piers shelters most of the front of the house. Three-bay facade (WW, D, W) with 3/1 double-hung windows. A carport has been attached at northwest. Built in the 1920s or early 30s. Contributes marginally.
108. C 403 One-story, frame, Colonial Revival house on brick foundation. Symmetrical five-bay facade (WW, WW, D, WW, WW) with 6/1 double-hung windows and six-panel door with fanlight within a double-pedimented frontispiece. Built by local builder, J. R. Bell in 1929-30. Contributing. (Photo 41)
- 109a.C 405 One-story, irregularly-massed frame house on brick foundation, with English Cottage style features and wood siding. Three bay facade (WW, D, WWW) with 6/6 double-hung windows and six-panel door. Facade has an asymmetrical curving gable roof at the left and a small portico with curving eaves and iron supports. Probably built about 1935-1940. Contributing.
- 109b.C Gable-front frame garage. Contributing.
110. C 406 One-and-a-half-story, gable-and-wing frame house on brick foundation with English Cottage style features, clad in shingle siding. At the right of the facade is a gable-front projecting bay with a pair of diamond-paned, double-hung windows. At the left of the facade is a single 6/6 window and a brick stoop leading to a transversely-placed door. Probably built about 1935 to 1940. Contributing.
111. C 407 One-story, irregularly-massed, frame house on brick foundation. Facade has a gabled, projecting, off-center entrance block, to the left of which are two separate 6/6 double-hung windows and to the right of which is a pair of 6/6 windows. Probably built about 1940. Contributing.

- 117a.C 204 A one-story, irregularly-massed, frame house with Victorian Vernacular features overlaid by bungalow-style alterations. At the left of the facade is a shingle-sided Victorian bay with 2/2 double-hung windows. Elsewhere windows are 3/1, 4/4, and 6/6. The hip-roofed porch is supported by short box columns on brick pedestals. Built c. 1890, remodeled c. 1920. Contributing.
- 117b.N Rectangular concrete block, gable-roofed apartment has been added to the northeast. c. 1950. Noncontributing.
118. C 206 One-and-a-half-story, irregularly-massed, side-gabled, frame Craftsman-style bungalow on brick foundation. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WW) with 4/1 double-hung windows. Door has multiple-light sidelights. Full-width porch is supported by short Tuscan colonnettes on brick pedestals linked by a plain balustrade. Built c. 1910. Contributing. (Photo 43)
119. C 207 One-story, frame, irregularly-massed house with steeply-pitched gabled roof, weatherboard exterior, and bungalow-type screened porch at south, on brick piers. Facade has been altered by removal of original porch, addition of metal awnings on windows and shed-roofed entry shelter. Gable ends retain Gothic Revival brackets and circular attic lights. Shed-roofed additions have been made to the gabled rear wings. Originally built c. 1880-1900, but substantially altered. Contributes marginally because of alterations.
120. C 208 One-story, frame, irregularly-massed house with Gothic and Italianate features, partially remodeled with Craftsman details. Steeply pitched gable roof with scalloped vergeboards and circular attic windows. On projecting gable-front bay at the left of the porch is a semi-hexagonal

bracketed bay windows. The porch with patterned square brick columns and brick parapet wall is Craftsman-style in character. Windows are mostly late Victorian 2/2 double-hung. Shed additions have been made in rear west and to south. Built c. 1880, remodeled c. 1920. Contributing. (Photo 44)

121. C 210 One-story, frame, Victorian Vernacular cottage with wood siding, on brick foundation. Hipped roof with multiple gables has centered gable-roofed dormer on front and boxed cornice returns. Four-bay facade (WW, D, D, W) has 1/1 double-hung windows. c. 1890-1910. Contributing.
122. C 212 One-story, multi-gabled, brick-veneer English Cottage style house on brick foundation. Three-bay facade (WW, D, WWW) with 6/1 double-hung windows. Surrounds for door and triple windows have round and segmental arches. Window in gabled dormer is diamond-paned, and window in gable peak is round-arched. Two chimneys pierce roof. Built about 1931 for George McIngvale, head of City Water and Light Department. Contributing. (Photo 45)
123. C 213 One-story, frame, house with pyramidal roof, multiple gables and centered shed dormer, on brick piers. Facade has been altered by addition of a window at the north end where the hip-roofed porch once wrapped corner and by the removal of a window. Windows are 1/1 double-hung. The porch is supported on slender wooden Tuscan columns. Irregular massing with shed and gabled additions on rear. Built c. 1900, remodeled about 1920. Contributes.
- 124a.C 301 One-and-a-half-story, hip-and-gable-roofed frame house. Three-bay facade (W, D, W) with 2/2 double-hung windows and one-light paneled door with one-light transom. Full-width porch has chamfered posts and chinoiserie railing. Gable-roofed dormer centered on front has boxed cornice returns and four clustered windows. Two corbelled-top chimneys pierce the roof. House built c. 1904 by Hampton Young, an Oktoc area farmer and land owner. Contributing. (Photo 46)

Colonial Revival styles, including mantels and built-in cupboards. The house was built about 1906 by J. C. Ward, a farmer and cotton gin operator, who was active in early 20th century civic affairs. The house remained in the family until 1989. A pivotally contributing element of the district. (Photos 49, 50, 51, 52)

Located behind the house are two outbuildings:

- 140b.C One-story, front-gabled frame smokehouse. Board-and-batten exterior, recessed facade created by locating solid front wall about two feet behind plane of roof gable. The roof overhang is supported by a screen of closely spaced 2" by 4" boards at each end of the floored porch area. The only opening is a plank door in this recessed facade. Built c. 1906. Contributing. (Photo 53)
- 140c.C One-story, two room, gable-roofed, frame cook's house with board-and-batten exterior, located to the north and west of the Ward House. Building faces a former pasture to the west and has a shed-roofed porch over the door on the west gable end. There is a second plank door in southern elevation facing toward the Ward House. One exterior chimney on (east) end and an internal flue in west room. Wooden shutters on some windows. Built about 1906-10. Contributing. (Photo 54)
141. C 525 Two-story, frame, I-House with Victorian Vernacular details and front and rear one-story additions, on brick piers. The main two-story section has exterior end chimneys and three-bay facade on both levels. Second level has three 6/6 double-hung windows. The lower story has a central door with four-light sidelights and five-light transom, between two 6/6 double-hung windows. The full-width shed-roofed porch is supported on "pierced columns" with jigsaw brackets. The balustrade has jigsaw balusters and milled rails. A one-story, one-room addition has been made to the right (south) of the facade. Its gable end faces the street. It has horizontal wood siding and a door onto the

145. C 300 One-story, rectangular, hip-roofed house with elements of Victorian Vernacular mixed with Colonial Revival details. On brick piers with rough-faced concrete block skirting. Three-bay facade (W, D, W). Front windows have wide single-pane lower sash and narrow upper sash divided into diamond-and-hexagon-shaped lights. Four panel door has heavily molded, round recessed bottom panels. Sidelights have patterned panes above single panes in the pattern of the facade windows. Above the door is a patterned multi-pane transom and a peaked cornice. A gable-roofed central dormer has decorative shingles and two fixed windows with Queen Anne lights. The recessed full-width porch is supported on slender wooden Tuscan columns resting on concrete block pedestals linked by a plain balustrade. Metal cresting survives on the roof ridge. The house, built for J. M. Carpenter about 1870, was remodeled about 1910-15. A photograph of the house in its present form appears in a 1920 Illinois Central magazine. Contributing. (Photo 57)
146. N 302 One-story, side-gabled, rectangular Ranch house on brick foundation. Four-bay facade (WWW, D, W, W) with 2/2 aluminum double-hung windows. Porch on metal supports has shed roof and a concrete floor. Built c. 1960. Noncontributing.

Statement of Significance

The Overstreet School Historic District is significant to Starkville and Oktibbeha County because it is an important physical expression of the growth and development of Starkville during the period 1870 to 1940, when Starkville changed from a small courthouse village with an agricultural economy to one of Mississippi's major educational and industrial centers. Additionally, the district is locally significant for its architecture, which represents the tastes of the business and professional class that created the modern town following the Civil War. It is the largest concentration of late nineteenth and early twentieth century residential architecture in the county and includes representative examples of the styles of residential architecture popular in Mississippi towns during that time. The period of significance begins in 1870, when the first houses in the area are known to have been standing (although some may have been built before this date) and ends in 1940, fifty years before the district was surveyed and somewhat of a watershed for the architectural character of the area.

The district is also important as a physical record of the pattern of social and economic relations between whites and blacks in small-town Mississippi in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Many of the houses of upper-middle class white families originally had adjacent housing for black domestic workers, of which several buildings still stand, including the cooks' houses behind 401 East Gillespie (#21), 301 South Washington (#124), and 514 South Washington (#140). In the midst of the district is a traditionally black enclave on South Lafayette Street which includes the house (#80) long occupied by Robert Weir, a prominent leader of the black community and the only black to own and operate a business on Main Street in the decades before World War II.

As explained in the National Register documentation for the Greensboro Street Historic District (NR 1982), Starkville was settled in the 1830s soon after the surrounding lands were acquired from the Choctaws. Starkville became the seat of the newly-formed Oktibbeha County in 1835 and was incorporated in 1837, but it remained a small village up until the Civil War, having a population of fewer than 200 in 1860.

The community began to grow in the 1870s. In 1874 the town acquired rail service with the completion of the Mobile and Ohio branch line connecting Starkville to the main line at Artesia. Soon afterward telegraph service was established. In the 1880s the Canton, Aberdeen, and Nashville Railroad (later part of the Illinois Central system) reached Starkville. The most important factor in shaping the future growth of the community, however, was the establishment in 1880 of the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College (now Mississippi State University). With the coming of the railroads and the college, Starkville began to emerge as a business and educational center.

As the town grew in the 1870s and 80s, a residential neighborhood developed to the south of the original town, along South Montgomery, South Jackson, and South Washington Streets. A private school was established on South Jackson Street in the 1880s. In 1897 the Starkville Public School was erected on that site, at the northeast corner of S. Jackson and Green Streets. The building still stands as Overstreet School, but it has been enlarged and altered several times (especially in 1949).

Documentation is scant as to the laying-out of streets in the area during the late nineteenth century. Sanborn fire insurance maps were made for Starkville beginning in 1885, but the area south of the Illinois Central tracks is not shown on Sanborn maps until 1905, and the present grid of streets in the area is not fully shown until 1925. Nevertheless, the presence of scattered late Victorian houses throughout the area indicates that the neighborhood had grown to the extent of the district boundaries by the 1890s. The neighborhood particularly flourished in the first and second decades of the twentieth century, when many of the finest houses were built. Another burst of construction in the district occurred in the late 1920s, possibly due to the opening of the Borden condensary immediately to the northeast of the district in 1926. The presence of the university and the Borden plant provided economic stability for the area through the 1930s and sporadic construction continued in the district. In the years immediately following World War II, however, residential development shifted to other, newer parts of the city, allowing the Overstreet School neighborhood to retain a large proportion of its houses from earlier periods with only a scattering of newer houses.

As explained in the Description section, the district is distinguished architecturally by its variety of architectural styles embodying the architectural tastes of middle-class townspeople of Mississippi between 1870 and 1940. The district contains some of Starkville's best examples of late Victorian vernacular, Queen Anne, and Colonial Revival residential architecture, as well as numerous bungalows and Tudor cottages. Among the more notable houses are:

6. The Charles M. Gay House, 110 East Gillespie (NR 1990).
Starkville's most important surviving example of Queen Anne style residential architecture, built about 1896.
53. The Judge T. B. Carroll House, 304 South Jackson (NR 1991).
A fine Colonial Revival house built about 1906 and recently restored.
55. The Judge W. W. Magruder House, 306 South Jackson (NR 1984).
Built about 1902, this house is transitional in style between the "free classical" mode of Queen Anne and the Colonial Revival.

140. The J. C. Ward House, 514 South Washington Street.

Built about 1906, this house, a combination of Colonial Revival and Craftsman Style features, is notable for its well-preserved interior.

Although many of the district's houses lack individual architectural distinction, the district as a whole is a notable assemblage of middle-class residential architecture of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

These boundaries are indicated on the enclosed approximate scale map of the district.

Boundary Justification

This boundary encloses an area containing the contributing elements of the district and some noncontributing elements scattered among them. Wherever feasible the boundary follows rear lot lines so that properties on both sides of the streets are included. The boundary excludes commercial and industrial properties north of the district, newer or noncontributing residential buildings to the east and west, some new apartments to the southeast, and commercial properties to the south.
