18. Description
 No. 844 South Second Street is a two-and-one-half-story brick house. The facade has an arched opening on the right with smooth stone voussoirs with a pronounced key-stone. The arch contains a recessed entry consisting of a single door with sidelights. The left side of the ground floor is pierced by a double-hung window with a square-headed hood. A stone band runs across the facade from the ends of the hood. The second floor has two

19. History
 This structure is one of four houses built on the site of a house owned by Mary Curran. The property was rented to the former governor of Kentucky, John Young Brown, at the turn-of-the-century.

20. Significance
 This house is a fine example of the late Victorian style and is interesting as an example of speculative buildings. The structure is part of a small cluster of residential dwellings which remain in North Old Louisville.
