DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Greenfield Hill is a rural community of charm and beauty set apart from the centers of industry, commerce, and politics. In the past it has been an agricultural community and a cultural center. There are 38 principal houses and structures within the Historic District and 20 separate subsidiary structures such as garages, sheds, and barns, and one old windmill. Analysis of the known or estimated ages of the principal structures reveals 13 buildings built prior to 1800 with the majority of these being pre-revolutionary, 6 structures built between 1800 and 1850, 9 structures built between 1850 and 1900 and ten between 1900 and 1966.

Timothy Dwight Park; located between Hillside Road, Old Academy and Bronson Roads, is the site of Timothy Dwight's famous Academy where young women and men were admitted to study Latin, Greek, Calculus, Surveying and Navigation.

Olf Cemetery on Bronson Road: originally an Indian burial ground, this cemetery contains the graves of soldiers of the French and Indian Wars, the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, and the Civil War. The tradition of planting dogwoods along the road was begun by Revolutionary War hero, Dr. Isaac Bronson.

105 Meeting House Lane: now owned by Hubert Mandeville, this house was built a bout 1750 by Zalmon Bradley. Originally a salt-box, it was remodeled many years ago to its present handsome appearance, with a four-sided hip roof, four chimneys and exquisite doorway. In addition to its great architectural interest, it is important through the brief association with it of Abraham Baldwin, a key figure in the drafting of the Constitution, and of Joel Barlow, poet of the Revolution, one of the "Hartford Wits", and envoy and minister of the United States to Morocco and other countries.

Greenfield Hill Congregational Church: The present church building was built in 1855 in the same style as its predecessors. For almost 250 years this church has been the center about which the life of Greenfield Hill has revolved. The location of the church itself on the village green and its simple, typical New England village style typify the part it has played in the cultural and religious life of the community.

Old Salt Box at 1081 Hillside: now owned by John L. Peters, was built in 1751 by Gershom Hubbell, saddler and leather dresser. He carried on his trade in once room of the house when Timothy Dwight cameto Greenfield Hill in 1783, it was in this room that he started his famous Academy.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Greenfield Hill is significant because it has been the intellectual and cultural center of the Town of Fairfield. It became famous as the location of the Academy founded by Timothy Dwight and conducted by him for 12 years immediately preceding his appointment as President of Yale. Abraham Baldwin, who lived in one of the houses within the Historic District, moved to Georgia in 1784 and there he not only became a delegate to the convention that drafted the Constitution of the United States, but also a key figure in the compromises that permitted its adoption by the various States. He founded the University of Georgia and became ats first president. Scholars of note came from all over the United States and from abroad to Greenfield Hill: Joel Barlow, the poet, and Talleyrand were frequent visitors. Another who have played an important role in the political life of the nation was fideon Tomlinson who served as U.S. Congressman and Senator and was governor of the State from 1827-1837.
