SACRED HEART CHURCH (418 N. Dewey Street) Intensive Survey Form - Continuation sheet (1)

ARCHITECTURAL STATEMENT:

Description: The reddish-brown brick Sacred Heart Church is an apsidal structure covered by a gable roof. Twin front towers and side aisles lining the nave of the building project from the main block. The square towers, mirror images, highlight the design and depart from the style's more commonly observed pattern of unmatched towers. Lantern-like belfries mark the uppermost stage of the corner features. The belfries' openings are round arched and the crowning domical roofs, each supporting a Latin cross, are metal covered. Blind arcades identify the polygonal section between the belfries and the square tower bases, which feature narrow two story round arched openings on three sides. The church's main gable includes a large rose window divided in wagon wheel fashion. Below are five small round arched windows with pronounced archivolt trim. At the ground level a shallow pavilion encompasses three side-by-side entrances all contained within compound arches. This lower floor is further distinguished by an arcade-like corbel table, a feature repeated above the rose window outlining the pitch of the gable roof and along the eaves of the north and south facades. These facades are defined by additional round arched windows. The side aisles are characterized by long openings separated by thin pilasters, while the upper walls are punctuated by five groups of three windows with the center opening a larger version of its flanking neighbors. A small wooden cupola straddling the roof ridge near u the rear of the church marks the interior altar area.

Significance: Erected in 1928, Sacred Heart Church is a locally distinguished example of late Neo-Romanesque architecture. The imposing church structure, located on a bluff overlooking the city, is a prominent visual feature of the city's commercial and remidential center. Characterized by identical twin towers, an over-sized rose windows, and a multiplicity of round arched openings, the church contributes significantly to the quality and variety of Eau Claire's architectural heritage.

HISTORICAL STATEMENT:

Eau Claire's first Catholic congregation was organized in 1858 by Father Napoleon Mignault of the Catholic church in nearby Chippewa Falls. A church was erected on N. Barstow Street and the mission named St. Peter's. In 1865 the parish was officially established and the name changed to St. Patrick's. Ten years later Sacred Heart Church was founded when a number of German-speaking families formed a separate parish. Father Paul Geyer was Sacred Heart's first pastor. A frame church and school were erected immediately but they were replaced by brick structures the church in 1880 and the school in 1910. Sacred Heart Hospital, founded in 1889 and located approximately half a block north of the church, was also part of the complex. Today the hospital buildings contain the Eau Claire Academy, a child and adolescent treatment center. In 1921 Father Francis Orthen became pastor of Sacred Heart and was responsible for the construction of the present church building. It was dedicated on May 1, 1929, by the Most Reservend Alexander McGavick, Bishop of LaCrosse (E C).
