Section number 7----- Nicholas Carter House Page # 1

The Nicholas Carter House is a two-story, five bay, Italianate influenced residence built in 1872. The house was built in a central passage plan form with a rear two-story rear brick ell. The house is located in a rural section of Larue County and faces the Carter Brothers Road. To the east, north, and south of the residence are outbuildings constructed after the period of significance.

The house has a low pitched hipped roof of metal standing seam, three interior wall brick chimneys, a brick foundation, and an exterior of five course common bond brick. The entrance on the main facade has an original surround with three light sidelights and a four light transom. The original door was replaced with a nine light glass and wood door ca. 1925. Windows are original four-over-four rectangular wood sash with original wood sills and brick jack arching. At the roofline are wide eaves with plain soffits. On the east and west facades are exposed iron tie rods with floral design anchors.

In the east facade of the rear ell is the location of a two-story frame porch. This porch area was enclosed ca. 1960 and has metal siding, and modern doors and windows. The interior of the house retains its original central passage floor plan and detailing. This detailing includes an original milled newel post and staircase, four panel doors, and mantles with Greek Revival influences.

PROPERTY TYPE: Rural Residence, High Style Victorian, 1860-1940

The Nicholas Carter House is significant under criterion C for its architectural design. The house was built in 1872 and is a good example of a central passage plan residence with Italianate influences of the mid-19th century. The residence is one of only two brick residences remaining in the rural sections of the county which were built in the decades following the Civil War. The house has not been significantly altered and retains its original design and detailing.

Construction of the residence began in 1872 with total completion not occurring until 1875. It was built for landowner Nicholas Carter who owned several hundred acres in this section of the county. Carter had a large family of 14 children and they farmed the property until the late 19th century. The house was later owned by his son, Squire Carter, and remained in the family until the mid-20th century. The road in front of the house is known as the Carter Brothers Road in recognition of the family. The house continues to be the center of a farm operated by the present owner.
