This bridge was one of 28 bridges the Gage County Commissioners ordered constructed on July 20, 1898. The Youngstown Bridge Company of Youngstown, Ohio had the annual contract to construct the county's bridges that year.

This bridge is technologically significant as one of the three oldest of 32 small, steel, rigid-connected Warren pony trusses of a type found only in Gage County. They are characterized by a relatively light-weight superstructure and a rare suspended U-bolt connection of the floor beams to the superstructure. The Youngstown Bridge Company of Youngstown, Ohio was the first company to build these bridges in Gage County.
