Community: TOPSFIELD	Form No: 64
Property Name: Zaccheus Gould House

Indicate each item on inventory form which is being continued below.

SIGNIFICANCE

The Gould House has integrity of location, materials, design, workmanship and setting in its two First Period frames and embodies distinctive characteristics of form and construction under Criterion C. Its earlier frame exhibits on the summer beam a particularly well-executed example of the relatively rare quarter-round chamfer and lamb's tongue stop without collar. (type C-2 in the Kyprianos typology).

The enlargement of the house from single to double cell plan within the First Period is representative of a larger group of First Period houses.

The distinctive deeply jowled corner posts of the c. 1700 end of the house are also found in the Stephen Foster House in Topsfield. This link may suggest that both buildings are the work of the same carpenter, providing a relatively rare instance in the survey area where more than one building can be attributed to the same joiner, or school of joiners.

EXTERIOR DESCRIPTION

The Zaccheus Gould house is five bays long, 2 1/2 stories high, and one room deep. There is a central chimney and an early 20th century ell to the rear. The original c. 1670 single cell structure comprises the right-hand portion of the house. The left-hand rooms were added c. 1700. The clapboarded exterior has Second Period Vernacular trim including simply framed sash windows, and an enclosed porch. Three dormer windows were added in the 20th century.

MAJOR FIRST PERIOD FEATURES

Evidence of the two First Period frames, c. 1670 in the right hand rooms and c. 1700 on the left is seen in all four front rooms. Doubled framing members are found at the junction of the two frames.

In the older right (east) room, there is a longitudinal summer beam with broad quarter-round chamfer and lamb's tongue stops. Other framing members in the room are unchamfered. Joists are spaced 18 1/2" on centers.

In the right hand chamber, the summer tie beam and end tie beam have slim flat chamfers and taper stops.

In the left hand room of c. 1700 the longitudinal summer beam has two-inch wide flat chamfers and triangular stops. Joists are spaced 20 1/2" on centers. The summer tie beam in the left-hand chamber also has flat-chamfers and triangular stops. Other framing members in this room have slim flat chamfers and taper stops. Corner posts in the chamber are massive and are jowled c. 2 feet from the floor.

Indicate each item on inventory form which is being continued below.

The attic exhibits a principal rafter, common purlin roof with evidence of collar beams in the newer part. Rafters are doubled at the junctions of the newer and older portions of the roof.

LATER SIGNIFICANT FEATURES

The Gould House retains fine Second Period raised-field paneling on fireplace walls in the right and left-hand rooms and the right-hand chamber. The left-hand room is further embellished with a bolection molded fireplace surround and a corner cupboard.

A barn built c. 1910 adds to the historical setting of the property. A second barn visible a historic photograph was demolished in this century.
