| STATEMENTThe Petersen Music Pavilion is one of Iowa'Revival style, the best known being Hoyt Shvas modeled on Bertram Goodhue's SprecklesCalifornia Exhibition in San Diego in 1915.Less decorative, repeats Goodhue's basic forconcentration of Baroque detail at cornicesscenium arch is quite plain in contrast totreated far more simply. It is interestingresponsible for two local buildings clearlyarchitects: This pavilion and the PetersenRoot's Rookery in Chicago. Both were erecttypes, and suggest a family interest in maj | erman Place, Des Moines. The PavilionMusic Pavilion, built for the PanamaThe Petersen Pavilion, although farorm and massing, flame finials, andand side openings. However, the pro-Goodhue's, and the side pavilions areto note that the Petersen family wasadapted from works by major American's Sons store, modeled on Burnham &ed shortly after their more famous proto- |
