Sitting high above Lumpkin Street on the campus of the University of Georgia is a house, complete with out-buildings, now known as the Garden Club of Georgia Museum - Headquarters House. Originally constructed in 1857 as a home for university professors, the house is now leased by the Garden Club of Georgia from the University and was dedicated as its State Headquarters in 1963. Subsequently, the Garden Club of Georgia restored the main house, furnished it with period furnishings, and now operates it as a house museum open to the public without charge. Initial construction in 1857 included the house, a kitchen building, and a smokehouse. As originally constructed, the house consisted of two stories with two rooms and a central hall on each floor. Soon after, a 20 by 40 foot room Was added to the rear at the end of the hall. Later additions included two small one-story wings, one of clapboard and one of brick on the sides of the main structure. With exception of the one clapboard wing, all other construction is of red brick. The main house, kitchen building, and smokehouse enclose a space which has been developed as a courtyard as a part of the two and one-half acre Founder's Memorial Garden developed as a living memorial to the twelve founders of the first garden club in America. (The Ladies' Garden Club, founded in Athens in 1891, The garden is actually a was America's first garden club.) series of gardens including a formal boxwood garden, a gravel terrace garden, a sunken formal garden enclosed with a serpen-tine wall, and several informal gardens as a display of plant materials of Georgia's Piedmont Area. As a part of the garden development, there is a belgian block court at the entrance of the main house.

Exteriors: (1)Main House - a low-pitched gable roof with a simple cornice crowns the major two-story portion of this red brick structure. An interior chimney punctuates the roof at the two gable ends of the house. The one-story addition at the rear has a chimney at the end. All windows are shuttered and are twelve-over-twelve. The simplicity of the front facade is relieved by a one-story gabled porch which is ornamented with cast-iron columns and a ballustrade with twin staircases which sweep out from both sides of the porch. The trabeated doorway opening features the typical Greek Revival treatment with sidelights and those above the door. (2)Out-buildings. The kitchen and smokehouse buildings are of red brick with low-pitched gable The kitchen building has two doorways leading into two roofs. inter-connecting rooms. Interior chimneys are located at the gable ends of the roof. Windows are six-over-six. The smokehouse has a door opening onto the courtyard and on the rear facade, a bay window of later addition. Interiors: (1) Main House. The entrance hallway features a simple, yet beautiful, stairway to the upper floor. A sitting room and dining room are located on either side of the hall. The rear of the hall features a doorway, matching the main entrance and complete with sidelights and those above, which (CONT.) S opens into the 20 by 40 foot ballroom. Two windows are located on the sides of the room with the fireplace as focal point at the far end. The small upstairs balcony-like hall provides access to two bedrooms, each with a fireplace. All floors are heart pine. (2) Kitchen building. This building is divided into two rooms, each with its own fireplace and simple mantle. Due to the large opening, the kitchen room is easily identified. The second room was used as a summer dining room. Brick floors and stark white plaster over brick walls symbolize the utilitarian nature of this structure. (3) Smokehouse. The smokehouse has been converted from its original use to that of a memorial to the founders of the first garden club. This small one room structure has brick floors and white plastered walls. A bay window with window seat below has been added for light and provides a view of the formal box garden.

The garden, the house, and outbuildings are all adjacent to Old North Campus and together constitute part of the historic fabric of the college campus. Each day hundreds of students pass through this complex and thus receive a glimpse of an orderly environment with continuity from the earliest days of the college. Thus in a symbolic sense the house and its grounds do "monitor student activity and apply discipline as needed."
