Section number __7 Page __1

Description

Commercial buildings of the Boom and Bust Era (1914-1939) usually mirrored current architectural trends. Builders during this period in White County did not construct many high-style buildings; they instead borrowed architectural details from these styles to elaborate their basically vernacular buildings. The U.L. Hickmon Hardware Store, however, is an exception to this. It was, and still is, clad with stucco instead of the customary brick.

Located on the north corner of Main and Second Streets, the U.L. Hickmon Hardware Store is located in what was once bustling downtown Bradford. The building is one-story tall, rectangular in shape, and constructed of reinforced concrete that was then covered with stucco. It was constructed in 1925, and is still in good condition. The storefront windows facing Main Street have been replaced by single-pane fixed frame windows but the arched transom lights above remain. A metal awning stretches the entire length of the facade. Fenestration along the east elevation of the building consists of six-pane awning windows that have six-pane fixed frame windows above and three-pane fixed frame windows below. A centrally located metal awning covered entry way separates the two windows. East of the doorway is a stucco clad chimney. The building's north elevation is free of any openings while the west elevation is connected to another commercial building. This structure has a flat roof with parapet.

Significance

When this building was constructed in 1925, it was one of several businesses located in the vicinity of Bradford's main intersection. The intersection of U.S. Highway 67 and Bradford's Main Street was located just one block west of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad Depot. Due to the sheer volume of traffic in this area, it was only natural that the bulk of the town's commercial activity was located here. The U.L. Hickmon Hardware Store is significant because it reflects this period of prosperity.

This store is also significant because of its building materials; it is one of only six commercial buildings left in White County that was originally clad with stucco. Also, it is one of just a handful of buildings left in the county that were constructed of reinforced concrete.

The man responsible for building this store was John Calhoun who built at least two other buildings in Bradford's commercial district. Calhoun was fond of using reinforced concrete as a building material. The other buildings that he constructed in town are also built of this material. Local legend has it that this building was constructed with half of a boxcar load, minus one shovel, of concrete.

Hickmon himself was very important to the people of Bradford. Because of numerous bank failures during the Depression, he served as the town's "banker". Townspeople were afraid to keep their money in banks because of these failures so instead they brought their money to Hickmon's store and kept it in his safe. The safe is still located in the store.

These are the reasons why this building is being nominated under both Criterion A and C with local significance.
