Description Summary:

Developed by Edmund J. Bennett and designed by Keyes, Lethbridge, and Condon between 1962 and 1966, Carderock Springs is a subdivision of 275 modernist houses located northwest of Bethesda in Montgomery County, Maryland. Typical of Bennett/KLC subdivisions, Carderock Springs was planned to take full advantage of the existing landscape and topography, with curvilinear streets and cul-de-sacs serving wooded, sloping lots. Houses within Carderock Springs represent a range of models suited to varying site conditions, unified by a consistent design aesthetic to create Bennett's goal of a "visual community". Carderock Springs also features a clubhouse and pool complex as an original amenity to the community.

General Description:

For a thorough description of Carderock Springs development, site planning, and house models, please refer to the Multiple Property Documentation form, "Subdivisions Built by Edmund Bennett and Designed by Keyes, Lethbridge, & Congdon in Montgomery County, Maryland, 1956-1973", particularly Section E 2D, pp. 67-76.

The majority of properties within the Carderock Springs Historic District retain a high degree of integrity, and contribute to the significance of the district. Properties will contribute to the significance of the district if they retain integrity to clearly identify them as representative examples of their type/model, and if they are historically associated with the theme of Bennett/KLC collaboration which is central to the contexts elaborated in the Multiple Property Documentation form, "Subdivisions Built by Edmund Bennett and Designed by Keyes, Lethbridge, & Congdon in Montgomery County, Maryland, 1956-1973". Properties built by Bennett but not designed by KLC, and/or properties whose design conforms to KLC models but which were constructed by builders other than Edmund J. Bennett, will not contribute to the significance of the district. A few Bennett/KLC properties have been altered to such a degree that they no longer clearly reflect their original design and configuration, and are therefore considered non-contributing.

Summary Statement of Significance:

The Carderock Springs Historic District is significant under Criteria A and C, as an example of a type of residential development which resulted from the collaborative efforts of builder Edmund J. Bennett and architects Keyes, Lethbridge, and Congdon in the suburbs of Washington, DC. The Bennett/KLC collaboration received substantial recognition in the popular and professional press in its day, as outstanding exponents of "Situated Modernism." This recognition enables Carderock Springs, which was developed between 1962 and 1967, to meet the standard of exceptional significance under Criteria Exception G. The district meets the Registration Requirements specified in the Multiple Property Documentation form, "Subdivisions Built by Edmund Bennett and Designed by Keyes, Lethbridge, & Congdon in Montgomery County, Maryland, 1956-1973".

Resource History and Historic Context:

The history of Carderock Springs, and its role within several applicable contexts, are addressed in the Multiple Property Documentation form, "Subdivisions Built by Edmund Bennett and Designed by Keyes, Lethbridge, & Congdon in Montgomery County, Maryland, 1956-1973" (q. v.).
