DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Somerville Courthouse is a rectangular structure built in the Federal style of the Virginia colony. The two-story brick building which has a stone foundation is set in a grassy courtyard surrounded by a low stone wall.

Built from a simple plan the building has five double hung windows across the upper floor on the north and south sides, and four windows and a door on the first floor. The windows have flat white lent(ls and eight lights in each sash. The doors are centrally located and have a transom with two rectangular lights and a flat lent(l above.

There are two end-interior chimneys on the east and west sides. The east side has four windows between the chimneys while the west side has only two windows.

A hipped metal roof is surmounted by a cupola set on a square wooden base. This cupola is octagonal and has a copper dome which is topped with a finial.

On the ground floor are four offices. The second story was used as a courtroom with small rooms for use by witnesses and jurors. The original mantels adorn the fireplaces on both floors and some of the original trim and doors remain.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Somerville Courthouse, one of Alabama's outstanding landmarks, is the oldest standing courthouse in Alabama and is of a type of architecture which is rare in the state. Its style follows that of the buildings built in Virginia in the late 1700's and early 1800's.

In 1819 Somerville was incorporated as the county seat of Cotaco County which was created February 8, 1818 and was renamed Morgan County in 1821. The courthouse was built in 1837 with special taxes levied by the Alabama legislature in 1836 to replace the first courthouse built in 1825.

This building served as the courthouse until the late 1800's when dissatisfaction with the location caused the county seat to be moved. Several unsuccessful attempts had been made to move the county seat earlier, but finally in 1891 it was moved to the steadily growing river-front town of Decatur, and the records were removed from Somerville at night under armed guard.

The building was used as a school for several years. Now vacant, it is used once a month for meetings of the Somerville Town Council. The Council has proposed to donate this significant structure to the Alabama Historical Commission and the Commission will preserve this landmark when sufficient state and Federal funds are available.
