J.S. and Nannie Vanarsdale House (BO-11)

7. Description:

The Vanarsdale House (BO-11) sits on the south side of State Route 52 (the Danville-Perryville Road) at the end of a straight gravel driveway. Historically associated with a local blacksmith, the residence is a significant example of a T-plan dwelling with Victorian details in central Boyle County. Included in the nomination are four contributing buildings.

1.) Facing north to the Danville and Perryville Road, the main residence (contributing building) is a two-story, frame T-Plan dwelling sided with weatherboard and vinyl and having an asphalt shingle clad gable roof. Sitting on a continuous cut stone foundation, the dwelling has two central interior brick chimneys. The front (north) facade is divided into three bays with a central entry and a one-story, two-bay porch with turned posts. The porch exhibits a Victorian-era sawn frieze and brackets. Original 1/1 sash windows remain in plain arched wood surrounds with wood sills. The protruding front gable is one bay in width with single brackets along the cornice and a circular louvered vent. Vinyl siding is found over original weatherboard on the west side and south rear walls only. A two-story shed was constructed across the rear elevation in the early-twentieth century, sitting on a concrete block foundation with vinyl siding.

The irregular interior plan revolves around the front central entry hall, leading into a perpendicular hallway and other flanking rooms. Earred grooved architrave trim is found throughout the central halls on the first and second stories. The first story center-hall has an open stringer stairway with scalloped brackets, turned balusters and a late-nineteenth century newel post. Two iron-arched mantels on the first floor have coal grates.

2.) Behind (southwest of) the main residence is a frame coal storage house (contributing building), constructed at the same time as the main residence. Oriented facing the original rear porch of the residence, the building has a front gable roof with standing seam metal, board and batten siding and two swinging doors on the front (east) facade.

3.) To the southwest (behind) of the coal house stands a stock barn (contributing building), also dating to the construction of the main residence. Facing north, the barn has a center drive topped by a hay loft and flanked on either side by enclosed stalls. Sheds extend from either side of the barn. The front gable roof is clad with standing seam metal while the barn is sided with board and batten.

4.) Beside the stock barn is a c. 1881 storage shed (contributing building), oriented east-west with a front gable roof clad with standing seam metal and having a board and batten siding. The front (east) facade has an open ended bay entry.

8. Statement of Significance:

Located on the south side of the Danville and Perryville Road (S.R. 52), the J.S. and Nannie Vanarsdale House is locally significant under Criterion C as an example of the locally popular T-plan dwelling, constructed of frame and embellished with Victorian ornamentation. The associated outbuildings included in the nomination contribute to the understanding of the property's initial size and function upon its date of construction, ca. 1881. The main residence retains its historic integrity through its original associations of design, workmanship, materials and setting.

The property is located as part of the Multiple Property Listing "Historic and Architectural Resources of Boyle County, Kentucky" under the theme "Domestic Architecture in Boyle County: 1780-1945." The property was acquired by J.S. and Nannie Vanarsdale in 1881. No agricultural censuses were taken in Boyle County following 1880 and it is not known if the owners were prominent farmers or yielded purely subsistence crops. In fact, research for information regarding the Vanarsdales was unsuccessful.

The residence and outbuildings are located within the small community of Atoka, situated on the east side of the Salt River. The property sits back from the road and is fronted by a heavily altered small commercial building, believed to have been a late-nineteenth century blacksmith shop mentioned in deeds (Boyle County Deed Book 25: 52). The blacksmith shop is listed as part of the Vanarsdale property, however it is not known by whom it was operated.

10. Geographical Data:

Verbal Boundary Description:

The nominated property is indicated by the dotted area within Parcel 10 on the accompanying Boyle County Property Identification Map 29 and includes the main residence and three associated outbuildings, equalling less than ten (10) acres. The tax map is located in the Boyle County Property Valuation Administration Office and has a scale of 1" = 600'.

Boundary Justification:

The dotted boundary on the accompanying map includes the main residence and associated buildings that have historically been part of the Vanarsdale property and that maintain historic integrity. The additional acreage shown on Parcel 10 has been excluded due to development and alterations through patterns and use.
