moved.

The interior of the house is dominated by a nine foot wide hall running north-south and terminating originally in a north doorway identical to that on the south. There is great attention to detail on all interior doors, each having channeled framing pilasters with medallions at the top corners. At the north end of the hall a convex fireplace projects into the stairwell and on the reverse side there is a concave fireplace. All rooms on the first and second floor are extremely spacious.

The general condition of the building was very deteriorated at the time restoration was begun. It has now been stabilized due to the replacement of the roof. Columns and balustrade have been removed for repairs and temporary posts now exist in their place. A total restoration of the building is now contemplated.

Issac Hopkins Bronson was born in 1802 in Rutland, New York. At the age of 35, he was elected as a Democrat to serve in the 25th Congress of the United States, In 1840, shortly after moving to Florida, Bronson was appointed a U.S. Judge to the Eastern District of Florida. Upon the admission of Florida as a state in 1845, he was unanimously chosen as a judge for the Eastern Circuit, making him one of the first four Circuit Judges after Statehood, In 1846, Bronson was appointed U.S. Judge for the district of Florida and when the State divided into judicial districts, he retained the judgeship of the Northern District until his death in 1855.

Judge Bronson spent most of his life in Palatka, Florida where he was very active in the affairs of the community, Because of the size and grandeur of his home, it was considered a social center for the early St. John's River society.

Bronson's wife, Sophronia, survived him at the time of his death and immediately sold the Palatka property and returned to New York. There were several subsequent owners of the house and land, one of whom, Miss Mary Mulbolland, occupied the house for an even greater length of time than Judge Bronson had. The house is today in the possession of the Putnam County Historical Society and plans are being developed for complete restoration.
