PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION

The Henry Levy Residence is a one-and-a-half story frame building of rectangular plan measuring 53 feet deep by 28 feet wide. The main roof is gabled with the ridge running parallel to the street. A single gabled dormer is centered on the front roof plane. Rectangular ventilators are located in the main gables. A front porch extends the width of the house; it is recessed under the roof which is supported in front by either round or tapered columns on rectangular piers. Exterior wall surfaces are stuccoed; the roof is shingled. The house has been well maintained and its original integrity is recoverable.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The house at 602 Second Avenue is significant both as a fine example of Bungaloid design and as the residence of Henry Levy. Mr. Levy was a native of Yuma who had a long and distinguished career as the city's Chief of Police. He was also active in community activities through membership in the Elks, Knights of Columbus, and the Volunteer Fire Department. The home he built in 1916 is one of the less elaborate Bungaloid forms. However, its broad roof, horizontal emphasis, and deep overhangs clearly mark it for inclusion in that stylistic category.
