

A Fossil Hunter's Home

For over 50 years, the fossil hunter has lived in this rustic cabin. The cabin is made of wood and has a steep roof. It is surrounded by scrub bushes and a dirt path. The fossil hunter is a well-known figure in the area and has discovered many important fossils. The cabin is a testament to the fossil hunter's dedication and hard work.

© 1998 National Park Service

