Angelus Funeral Home
Los Angeles, California

DESCRIPTION

The Angelus Funeral Home is located in the City of Los Angeles on a triangular lot that is bounded by Jefferson Boulevard on the northeast, East 35th Street on the south, and a surface parking lot associated with the building on the west. The apex of the triangle points toward Central Avenue. The two-story wood-framed structure has an irregular plan composed of a series of rectangular masses finished with stucco. The main mass is oriented toward Jefferson Boulevard and is covered by a side-facing gabled roof fit with red clay tiles. Primarily Spanish Colonial Revival in style, Art Deco, and Georgian Revival style features are also employed. The other masses have flat roofs and few details. The building retains all aspects of integrity.

The primary (northeast) elevation is asymmetrically organized. The main entrance is centered on a bay at the east end of the elevation. It is marked by a front-facing gable punctuated by an oval vent. The entire bay projects slightly from the façade, and the gable appear to be supported by fluted pilasters. The entrance features a six-panel door with a Georgian tabernacle frame and diamond pattern molding on architrave, crowned by a swan's neck pediment that has a small finial between the scrolls. On the west end of the elevation there is a recessed balcony on the second story. Below is a secondary entrance, which has a three-panel door, topped by a transom. The doorway is set in a tabernacle frame surmounted by a pediment. Additional design elements include a stringcourse between the first and second stories and French doors opening onto a second-story wrought iron balcony at the far west end. Centered on the apex of the triangle is a fluted, semi-circular bay flanked by pilasters. A fountain once stood inside the semi-circle. The south and west elevations are unadorned. The windows throughout are wood-framed casements in a variety of sizes.

The lobby features a circular staircase with an ornamental railing, a Georgian cornice with dentil molding, and a slender fluted square Doric column.

There are no apparent exterior alterations. The building permit records indicate that the exterior of the building was sandblasted in 1953, and that fire damage was repaired in 1959.

Angelus Funeral Home
Los Angeles, California

SIGNIFICANCE

The Angelus Funeral Home is eligible for listing in the National Register under Criterion A as it is associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history. It meets the registration requirements for commercial buildings outlined in the Multiple Property Documentation (MPD) Form for Historic Resources Associated with African Americans in Los Angeles. It is significant at the local level in the context of community development. Constructed in 1934, the Angelus Funeral Home is significant as an example of a successful commercial enterprise founded by African Americans.

As African Americans were excluded from employment in many sectors of the economy out of racial prejudice, they were forced to open their own businesses as a means of employment. The people who ran these businesses often emerged as community leaders. People of color were often denied services at hotels, restaurants, retail stores, mortuaries, insurance companies, dentist and doctors offices, etc. Black entrepreneurs and professionals filled the need by founding these and other businesses to serve the growing community. Successfully black-owned businesses, such as the Angelus Funeral Home, were a great source of pride for the community.

The first black-owned funeral home was established in 1899 as the Porter-Roberts Company. Created in response to the discriminatory practices of white funeral homes, A.J. Roberts sold his Los Angeles Van, Truck, and Storage Co. to open the A.J. Roberts Funeral Home at 14th Street and Central Avenue. Roberts also ran an apprenticeship program for morticians in addition to its other services. A.J.'s son, Frederick Roberts, took over the company and was the first African American elected to the statewide assembly in 1918. His election was in part a testament to the prominence of African American morticians within their community. Even the necessary accoutrements of the business, the property and the vehicles, elicited admiration. The reputation of morticians was further bolstered by their business connections with pastors, since the church was the established center of the African American community.

Angelus Funeral Home was founded in 1922 without much initial success due to competition within the community, but was sold and came under the leadership of new owners including Louis George Robinson, Lorenzo Bowdoin, and John L. Hill. Eventually Hill assumed full ownership of the business and grew the company into one of the most successful and prominent black-owned businesses in Los Angeles. In 1942, John L. Hill Jr. became the president of the company upon his father's death. In 1954, he became the first African American to serve on the five-member California State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers. He served on the board for 20 years. Hill was responsible for moving the business from Jefferson Boulevard to Crenshaw Avenue in 1951. He saw the business's clientele moving west during the late 1940s and knew that the funeral home needed to follow.

Although the building is not being nominated under Criterion C, it is important to note that it was designed by architect Paul R. Williams. One of the most successful and talented architects to practice in Los Angeles during the middle of the 20th century, Williams worked his way through the University of California by teaching art until he became a certified architect in 1915. He was the only African American licensed west of the Mississippi as early as the 1920s. Much of his work was residential and included mansions for film stars including Lon Chaney, Lucille Ball, and Tyrone Power. He also designed a number of important landmarks associated with the African American community including the 28th Street YMCA (1926), the Second Baptist Church (1926), the Hudson-Liddell Building (1928, demolished) the Golden State Lodge for the Order of the Elks (1930, demolished), and the second building for Golden State Mutual Life Insurance (1948-49).
