DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The frame of this 18th century meeting house was originally erected on the geographic center of the Town of Bristol in 1772. It was not completed as the townspeople then decided to build three meeting houses. This framework was taken down, reassembled and completed in 1775. The new location was by the intersection of the present Old Harrington Road and another road that has now long since disappeared. In the late 1840's it was moved across the lot to face on the Old Harrington R ad. At that time it was changed from a typical 18th century meeting house to what is known colloquically as a "Backto" church. The balconies were removed, the box pews were removed, the three doors and the two rows of windows were closed up. Two doors were put in the end facing the road and two long windows were put in either side of the building. A narrow vestibule with a low ceiling was installed. The high pulpit was sawed off and put on the floor against the vestibule wall. Bench pews were made to face the pulpit and the entrance doors. The walls and a cove ceiling were plaster. When it was decided to repair the building in 1960 the plaster walls and ceil- \mathbf{m} ing were crumbling due to a leaky roof. A new roof was put on and the plaster \mathbf{m} There were no records of what the building had been like originally, removed.

but removing the plaster proved that it was the original structure. Earlier plater between the 12" x 12" posts showed cracks where the original windows had been. When that plaster was removed it exposed the framework of the original doors on three sides of the building. Now having the original framework it was decided to restore the building as it was in the 1770's. Plans were not needed as all the indications of what had been were plain to be seen.

This is an actual restoration except for the balcony which has been installed with a flat floor and no pews in order to have a museum of and for the town. Books, maps, pictures, clothing and other memorabilia have been collected, all relating to Bristol. The museum is open during July and August, three afternoons a week.

The Harrington Meeting House abuts the Harrington Burial Ground which is the largest cemetery in this old section of Bristol. Many epitaphs are inscribed on the lichened gravestones, which reveal the names of early settlers and dates as early as 1716.

The Harrington Meeting House property consists of 1 3/8 acres in land area.
