

A black and white photograph of the entrance to Cartwright School. The building is constructed of brick and features a series of five large, dark, arched doorways. The central doorway is the largest and is topped by a small, gabled structure. A sign is mounted on this structure, displaying the text "CARTWRIGHT SCHOOL" in two lines. The sign is white with dark lettering. The roof of the building is covered in shingles. In the foreground, a light-colored path leads towards the entrance, flanked by grass and some bushes. The sky is bright and clear.
