Significance

20. Architectural significance

- a. Key structure/individually may qualify for the National Register
- b. Contributing structure
- c. Not eligible/intrusion

Two-story stone shed, tin roof, located along alley at rear of lot. Evidence of arched stone cellar window (?) at northwest corner of west face. Garage door added to south end of east face. Originally a smaller door at that point. Interior beams and floor extant, wooden partition divides structure into two rooms. Evidence of fireplace on west side of interior. There is some degree of deterioration, the walls need tuck-pointing and the window sash is in bad repair, especially lintels. The ornate nature of the window sash would indicate that this was originally both shop and residence.

21. Historical Significance

Theme(s) "Stone Cabin Style"

- a. Key structure/individually may qualify for the National Register
- b. Contributing structure
- c. Not eligible/intrusion

An early surviving stone residence, commercial structure in the town center. Both the shed and house have remained in joint ownership according to the abstract, and most likely the focus for commercial usage has been the house on the front of the lot. This stone building is referred to as a butcher shop. It is presently used for storage. The owner intends to renovate.

Item Number(s) STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE/ Architectural-X- Historical----

Statement of Significance: This stone shed is a good example of the local "Stone Cabin Style." This structure shows the lack of symmetry that was common of the "Stone Cabin Style." Worthy of note is the fact that as the architecture indicates; the building was used in its early days as both a shop and a residence.
