MACDONALD AVENUE, the outstanding business thoroughfare of Richmond, supplies the necessities and luxuries of life to the city's 31,000 population. It is a wide street, well paved and well lighted, and lined with modern shops, banks and offices that give the city its metropolitan air. Twenty years ago this was a muddy country road, flanked by open farming land. Today its stores offer stocks, service and prices so attractive that no purchaser need go to any of the larger cities to shop. The Hotel Carquinez is the largest and newest hostelry, owned and operated by Richmond people.
