The Ponder House is a fine example of a late Victorian townhouse. The structure is three stories high, including the mansard roof, and has a five-bay east frontage. To the west is located a slightly lower, four-bay rear wing at cross-axis to the main house block.

The house plan includes a center hall flanked by two south rooms and a large north room, which fills the depth of the house. The wing is composed of a hallway, enclosed stairway, and rear room. Vertically. the house is stacked room on room. S The fireplaces in the main house m are located on the center partition walls, as the north and south end m walls are each filled by a bay window. Interior detailing includes Z deep crown moulding, marble mantelpieces, and wainscots beneath the S windows. Besides the crown moulding, fine plasterwork can be observed 70 C in the rosettes supporting the chandeliers. 0

The frontage of the Ponder House is marked by the center extension of the hall, emphasizing the entry. A large verandah stretches across the first floor facade. Set on brick foundations, the entire house is of frame construction, sheathed in weatherboarding, and surmounted by a slate mansard roof. Details include decorated segmental arches spanning the windows, a bracketed cornice, and an arched window pair located on the second story above the dual-door entry.

The Ponder House has been altered to accommodate a mortuary; however, the necessary additions have occurred to the rear of the building, and building, have not seriously injured the quality of the main house block.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICAN

Governor James Ponder was a member of one of the oldest families in Broadkill Hundred. His ancestor John Ponder was born in England and emigrated to Maryland in 1674. Before 1719 the Ponder family had been established along the Broadkill River at what is now Milton

(OFTTG)

James Ponder, born in 1819, was the son of John Ponder, a Milton businessman, land owner, and shipper. He received a formal education at several of the academies in the state, and entered into business with his father in 1843. By the time of his father's death in 1863, James Ponder had become a successful merchant, shipper, and mill-owner. He was also said to be the most extensive land holder in Sussex County.

Among his public offices James Ponder served as a member of both the State House of Representatives and the State Senate. In 1867 he was chosen as Speaker of the Delaware Senate. During his term as Governor, from 1871 to 1875, Ponder built his house on Federal Street in Milton.

At the close of his term, Ponder moved to Wilmington, where he served as director of the Farmers' Bank. In 1879 he returned to his house and business activities in Milton, where he died in 1897.
