"Dalgain"(McCabe House)
(South Hills Multiple Resource Area)
Kanawha County
West Virginia

#7. Description

The Dalgain garage, located approximately 100 feet southeast of the main house, matches the parent structure with subtely textured stucco walls. The gabled elevation, facing Staunton Road, is at right angle to the main roof. The rectangular structure is a contributing dependency that was designed to complement the main house. The garage's roof is sheathed in a green shingle tile that presents the building with a sense of permanency and quality not often observed in garage construction of the area and of the period.

#8. Significance

"Dalgain" was built in 1916 as a wedding gift for Margaret Fleming Ward, a granddaughter of West Virginia Governor Aretas Brooks Fleming (1890-93), and Robert McCabe. McCabe, one of Charleston's leading attorneys, was also President of McCabe Shipping Co., a prominent Kanawha and Ohio River merchant shipping firm, and an early historic preservationist. Upon his retirement from the practice of law, Robert McCabe purchased "Happy Retreat", the Jefferson County home of Charles Washington (founder of Charles Town, West Virginia and brother of President George Washington) and restored the home.

The architectural significance of "Dalgain" is two-folded: It is a noteworthy work of noted Charleston, West Virginia architect H. Rus Warne (1872-1954); and is an outstanding example of early 20th century period house incorporating a Colonial and American Four-Square theme that stands out in a spacious suburban tract with broad lawns.

H. Rus Warne designed many of Charleston's finest residences, schools, churches, and public buildings. His best known Charleston public building's include the Charleston City Hall and the Kanawha County Courthouse. Leading Charleston businessmen and professionals commissioned him to design fine residences in the capital city. Over a dozen of his finest buildings are listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

The house designed for Robert McCabe and his wife Margaret is an elaborated American Four-Square with Colonial and Classical detailing represented in a dentil row at the cornice level of both the roof and porch roofs and in paired Roman Doric columns of the front portico and side porte-cochere. A special and favorite ornament employed by architect Warne was the paired bracket, a throw-back to Italianate designs, that many of his early 20th century domestic designs include. Warne favored the use of stucco facing that appealed to a generation in love with variations of Colonial, Beaux Arts and Palladian styles.
