DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Elms is a raised cottage with three levels; basement, entrance and attic. Each level has a double pile and central hall. The plan of the main structure is rectangular with a rectangular addition running the entire length of the back. There is a galerie on the front from which a single stair leads to a landing from which a single stair leads to a landing from which a half-turn stair leads to the ground level. The galerie rests on brick piers. The galerie is broken into five bays between six posts which have curvilinear jig-saw braces. The railing with turned balusters steps down slightly to the three middle bays. The basement is composed of three bays, while the entrance level has five bays. The roof is a gable with eaves, brackets and returns. There are six dormers, three on the front and three on the back. The dormers are pediments and their roofs are bracketed. There are two corbeled interior chimneys. The windows of the structure have six over six lights. The two center doors have transoms with nine lights and three side lights on each side. The house is finished in weather-board with the exception of the brick basement and the dormer sides which are staggered butts. The entrance hall contains a walnut stair which leads to the attic floor and an enclosed stair leading to the basement.

The interiors of The Elms have been maintained in excellent condition. Stairways leading to the second floor and basement are found in the spacious first floor center hall. An original mantel remains in the northwest parlor.

The floor plan of The Elms remains basically unaltered. There have been some alterations to the rear of the house. These are thought to have been made during Ben Altheimer's ownership.

The Elms rests upon its original site, framed by graceful elm and magnolia trees.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Set amid a grouping of huge oak and elm trees, The Elms is a one and one-half story frame structure constructed in 1866. The house is believed to be the oldest structure in the vicinity. The Elms is an architecturally significant structure as an example of a Louisiana raised cottage.

The raised cottage is an American style, developed by the Colonial French as a solution to the special problems posed by a semi-tropical climate. Although The Elms is not stylistically pure having been built too late to be considered a true Louisiana raised cottage, it is a clearly expressed link to Arkansas heritage in the Louisiana Purchase, and is a style rare and significant to this state.

The house features decorative detailing in its porch post and railing, brackets and dormers. The walls of the lower floor or basement are of brick construction, measuring fourteen inches in width.

The Elms was constructed in 1866 by Dr. Samuel Jordon Jones and his wife, Virginia Adeline Jones. Originally from Alabama, the Joneses moved to Altheimer shortly before the Civil War, where they entered the farming business. Dr. Jones died on August 3, 1881 and was buried in the family cemetery behind The Elms. The house was owned by the Jones' only child, Edna Collier, then sold to Ben J. Altheimer, from whose estate it was purchased by the present owners.

The Elms is an imposing combination of historic architecture and natural scenery. Situated beside a lake and groves of magnolia and elm trees, The Elms is a significant historic landmark.

Re: Land description, The Elms
Jefferson County

Dear Mrs. Smith:

We have your letter of March 31 as regards the legal land description of "The Elms". The house is located in the Southwest of the Northeast of Section 2, Township 5 South, Range 8 West of Jefferson County, Arkansas.

I am enclosing a small part of an aerial photograph used by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of the United States Department of Agriculture showing the exact location of the house. I have marked the house with a red square and the entrance with a red "X". You will note from this map that a part of our lake is in the SE NW of Section 2-5-8, and also a small part in NE SW 2-5-8.

I have marked the "40" lines with a broken blue line so that you can easily distinguish the areas I have above described. It is quite possible that you will only want to use the description of the "40" on which the house is actually located and if so, that is SW NE Section 2, T 5 S, R 8 W as above mentioned.

If there is anything else that we can give you on this, please advise us.

Yours very truly,

R. S. Barnett, Jr.
