A black and white photograph of a forest path. The path is a dirt road that curves to the right and recedes into the distance. The forest is composed of many thin, vertical tree trunks, likely deciduous trees without their leaves. In the lower-left foreground, a dark, rectangular marker is planted in the ground, with the word "PINE" written in white, bold, capital letters on its top surface. The ground is covered with fallen leaves and some sparse vegetation. The lighting is even, suggesting an overcast day or a shaded forest environment.
