

A black and white photograph of a stone pillar. The pillar is constructed from rough, irregular stones and is topped with a horizontal course of smoother, rectangular stones. A rectangular sign is mounted on the front face of the pillar. The sign has a light background and dark, bold, sans-serif text. The text is arranged in three lines: the first line reads 'HASSAYAMPA', the second line reads 'COUNTRY CLUB', and the third line reads 'NO TRESPASSING'. The pillar is set against a background of dense, leafy bushes and trees. The lighting creates strong shadows on the stone and the sign.
