DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

All Saints' Church is located in the triangle formed by the intersections of Maryland Route 4, Maryland Route 2, and Lower Marlboro Road (Maryland Route 262), south of Sunderland, Maryland.

This Georgian structure is of Flemish bond brick with random glazed headers. It is three bays wide and four deep. All the walls are composed of a series of round-headed brick arches recessed to the ground level. In these panels are set the windows and doors on two stories. The windows are all six-over-six with segmental arches and old shutters. The water table is composed of a flat projecting brick, topped by a cyma reversa mold, topped by a cyma recta. The church has a gently sloping "A" roof.

The interior walls of the church are a series of square piers and recessed two-story round-headed arches into which the windows are set. The north and south walls have galleries, each supported on five square piers. The east and the west walls have round windows on the second story level. The box pews have simple paneling. The church presents a well-restored, pleasing appearance.
