There have been numerous William Farnsworths in central Maine; one went to Quebec in 1775 with Benedict Arnold, but the succeeding ones were patriots and sound Maine citizens > William A Farnsworth of Rockland was a prominent and prosperous businessman who gained his income from lime-rock property and the Rockland Water Company, which he founded and ran as President. William Farnsworth liked to spend his money and in approximately 1854 he had the large wood frame Greek Revival house on Elm Street built (probably by the W. H. Glover Lumber Co.) which today is known as the Farnsworth Homestead.

At this time (1850-1870), Rockland was the number four port in the United States. The city built ships and furnished lime-rock to the world; the great lime-rock quarries burned cordwood in their kilns. Due to these activities, Rockland Bay was crowded and the streets of the city were filled with shipwrights, sailors, quarrymen and New Brunswick woodsmen.

13.00 1.115 N 19 8 11 The Farnsworth family was well known in Rockland. William had six children, but two of the boys died very young, leaving James, Fanny, Josephine and Lucy. Fanny was a beauty and the favorite of her father: she died of consumption in 1877 (her father had died in 1876) at the age of 24. James married, built a home on Cedar Street in Rockland, and became a prosperous businessman. Upon his death in 1905, his estate went to his mother. Josephine married a man from Thomaston and moved to a beautiful house in Boston. Upon Josephine's death in 1907, her estate also went to the mother. All of this property plus the Farnsworth Homestead and estate was subsequently inherited by Lucy, the youngest daughter, when her mother died in 1910. For many years Lucy and her mother had lived in the homestead; with the death of Mrs. Farnsworth, Lucy pulled down all of the window shades and lived the life of a recluse. Then as the manager of a $250,000 estate, she had extensive real estate holdings including several lime-rock quarries. Known as the "Hettie Green" of Rockland, Lucy Farnsworth was a cold woman who served as her own lawyer in court litigations and who was seen only occasionally walking through the city in old-fashioned black clothing. Yet, she was surprisingly generous when Rockland was in financial need prior to World War I. Approached by a tax collector for a loan to the city, Miss Farnsworth simply wrote out a check for $5,000.

8. SIGNIFICANCE

In October of 1935, a milkman discovered Miss Farnsworth's death when seven full bottles accumulated upon her side doorstep. The house was a shambles literally stuffed with money and bonds; the ninety-six year old woman, serving as her own broker had accumulated an estate worth one million and a half dollars, and in her will, which was found in a cupboard, she had stipulated that all of her money was to go to the city of Rockland. An art museum dedicated to her father was sketched in the will. Feeling that the amount stated for this purpose was too scanty in proportion to the funds, the executors, through the courts, broke the will and increased the amount set aside to establish this museum. The William A. Farnsworth Library and Art Museum was opened in 1948, and also in accordance with Lucy's will, the Farnsworth Homestead was restored exactly as a middle class example of the Post Federal era and was opened to the public.
