STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This ancient structure, built in 1783, is considered the oldest log cabin in the United States still standing in its original condition. In the summer of 1783 Jedediah Hyde, Jr. and his father went to Grand Isle as surveyors of the Island. Four years earlier Ira and Ethan Allen had modestly named the Island "The Two Heroes," and with Governor Thomas Chittenden, they parcelled out grants to the Green Mountain Boys. Most of the grantees sold their rights and Captain Hyde purchased several in the part that would later be called Grand Isle. The deeds are in the South Hero town clerk's office and were recorded June 12th, 1783. On this property of his father's on Road 1, district 4, Jedediah, Jr., built a house (this cabin) and it has been a home of various members of the Hyde family for nearly 150 years.

In 1952 the Board of Historic Sites took over the responsibility for the Hyde Log Cabin and completely restored the Cabin, saving as much of the original structure as possible. In 1956 the Cabin was formally dedicated and by a lease agreement was turned over to the Grand Isle County Historical Society. This group is now using the Cabin as a meeting place, museum and local information center and the responsibility for the furnishings belongs to them. The Cabin is owned by the State of Vermont and maintained by the Vermont Board of Historic Sites.
