7. Historical data. Explain the historical/architectural importance of this area.

Bigelow Street is host to a series of pretentious Mansard houses built between 1869 and 1874. The street was laid out in 1868 by Albert Vinal and almost completely developed within a few years. Vinal sold most of the land as house lots to individual housewrights and masons. Although no attempt was made to build identical houses, there is a consistent appearance to the group, attributable to the relatively short time span during which the structures were erected. The houses along Bigelow Street feature an abundance of high quality decorative detail and variations in plan. Rooflines and setback are uniform, following the rising incline of the street. When built, the average cost of these elegant and imposing houses was about $11,000, a high price for the period. Occupants of the houses included prosperous businessmen and government officials, including a Clerk of the Courts, a government detective, a commission merchant at Central Wharf, the Treasurer of the Cambridgeport Savings Bank, and a successful leather merchant.

1. Simeon Snow House (1869), 7 Bigelow Street

A side-hall Mansard with flush-boarded facade, quoins and an entrance porch with segmental quadrant struts; the home of Simeon Snow, a leather merchant.

2. 9-11 Bigelow Street (1874)

3. Henry Bird House (1874), 13 Bigelow Street

A square Mansard with center pavilion and curvilinear dormers on a patterned slate roof. Henry Bird owned a Cambridge iron foundry.

Patricia L. Weslowski, Executor Director
Massachusetts Historical Commission

Boston, Mass. 02108

Dear Ms. Weslowski:

RE: Lewis Macauley
8 Bigelow Street (118-35)
Cambridge, Mass.
Bigelow Street National Register District

I, Lewis Macauley, hereby certify that I am the owner of the house and land at 8 Bigelow Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts, and in accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act Amendments of 1980 and Federal Regulations 36 CFR Part 60, hereby object to the listing of my property at 8 Bigelow Street, Cambridge, as part of the proposed Bigelow Street National Register District.

I feel strongly about having any additional limitations placed on my use of the property. There are, in my opinion, more than enough restrictions imposed by zoning, sanitary code standards, and Rent Control, now.

Lewis Macauley
