The Allin Home is a two-storey brick five bay structure with a rear ell having a two-storey front porch and originally a rear ell shaped porch. The main roof is a low hip with a flat center section that originally was surrounded by either a wood or wrought iron cresting. The two-storey front porch has six wood posts with simple capitals and paneled pedestal bases supporting segmental wood arches. A bracketed, dentilated, and paneled entablature has paired brackets above each of the six columns. The main house has paired brackets at each of its four m The second-storey balustrade is classical main corners. with urn shaped balusters. Originally the lower porch had a matching balustrade that is now missing. All door and window openings have segmental arch lintels executed in soldier-coursed brick. The facade windows on both the lower and upper stories are floor-to-ceiling four light double hung sash with adjustable louvered shutters.

Inside, the house is basically one room deep plus the ell, with a center hall from front to back and two large rooms on either side both upstairs and downstairs. To the side and rear of the center hall is a circular Three internal brick chimneys, one at either staircase. end of the main house and one between the two rear rooms of the ell serve eight fireplaces.

The house is an unusual transitional design having a classical, almost Antebellum plan with Victorian trim and detailing particularly across the front two-storey porch. The house would be best described as a Victorian Renaissance style of solid brick construction with wood detailing and trim.

8. Significance Continued:

The Allin Home is architecturally significant because of its transitional design, its relatively small size with relation to its imposing appearance, and the fine well-proportioned detailing. The house has basically atterritorial or antebellum period floor plan, but with definite Victorian trim, woodwork and detailing. Its relatively small size is appealing to the modern eye because it seems friendly and more cozy than the average house of this period. Yet the design is handsome and imposing on the exterior. The detailing of the house both inside and out is well-executed and very well proportioned to the size and overall design of the house.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The earliest recorded reference to the land upon which the Allin Home is situated can be found in the Phillips County Tax Records for 1850 and 1851. A prominent landowner named William Russell had purchased Lot 410 sometime prior to 1850. By 1856, this particular parcel had become the property of Vincent Edwards and had an assessed valuation of $1,250.00. (It is at this point in time that one begins to think that the Allin House was built.) The lot was taxed in the name of the Taffin and Horner Law Firm with a valuation of $3,000.00 in 1858. At this time, Lots #408 and #409 which 409 which formed the south corner of the block adjacent to the Allin House lot had a combined valuation of $2,000. Lots 411 and 412 forming the north corner adjacent to the Allin House lot had a combined valuation of $1,500.00. Therefore, it can be concluded with some certainity that a structure had been constructed on Lot 410 if this lot had an assessed valuation of twice that of the four adjoining lots. George West sold the property in July of 1874 to Henderson B. Robinson, the Negro reconstructionist assessor and sheriff of Phillips County.

Robinson was Assessor of Phillips County from 1868 to 1872 and Sheriff from 1874 to 1878 which was the last year the Negro reconstructionist officials were in office in Phillips County. He was vilified in the papers and in the Hanks Diaires as one of the yankee radicals. His grave marker indicates that he was born in 1824 and died in 1881

In December 1889 Adeline Robinson, his widow, sold the property to Simon Seelig for the sum of $4,250.00. In February, 1907, Seelig sold the same property to Richard Allin for $4,350. The property has remained in the Allin family until the present time.
