

James Charnley House
Chicago, Illinois
Exterior view, Astor Street elev.
Photo: Scott McDonald
© Heidrich Blessing, 1988

A black and white photograph of the James Charnley House's entry atrium. The view is from the first floor, looking toward the living room. The atrium features a high, vaulted ceiling with a central light fixture. The walls are adorned with intricate woodwork and decorative panels. A large arched doorway in the background leads to the living room, where a chair is visible. The floor is made of polished wood, reflecting the light. On the right side of the atrium, there is a small, ornate chair and a decorative wall panel.

James Charnley House
Chicago, Illinois
View of entry atrium from first floor, looking toward living room
Photo: © Heidrich Blessing, 1988

James Charnley House
Chicago, Illinois
View of stairway alcove, first floor
Photo: © Heidrich Blessing, 1988

James Charnley House
Chicago, Illinois
View of wood grill on second floor of atrium; grill screens view of stairs leading to third floor
Photo: © Heidrich Blessing, 1988

James Charnley House
Chicago, Illinois
View of atrium from second floor landing, looking toward third floor
Photo: Nick Merrick
© Heidrich Blessing, 1988