A three-story brick building with a prominent balcony on the second floor. The balcony has a white railing and is supported by four diagonal wooden posts. A sign above the entrance on the ground floor reads "RIVERSIDE GALLERY" and "FRANK W. ALLEN". The building has several windows, some with shutters, and a dormer window on the roof. To the left, a portion of a dark brick building is visible.

A two-story building with a dark upper half and a light lower half. It has several windows and a sign that reads "Riverside Gallery". A white van is parked in front of it. To the right, a street lamp stands on the sidewalk.

A row of smaller buildings along the street, including a building with a sign that reads "Riverside Gallery". Several cars are parked along the street, and a street lamp is visible. The street extends into the distance towards a hillside.
