Description:		Level of Significance:
The J.A. Anderson House in Lamberton is located on a prominent corner in one of the first additions to the original city. The frame house displays elements of a restrained Queen Anne builder style, and pivots around a conical-roofed circular corner tower. A wrap-around two-story open porch with balustrades on both levels extends across the front and around the tower. Other features include sawn gable ornamentation, decorative shingles, and a recessed porch on the second level over the main entrance. At the rear of the property is a hexagonal gazebo with a concave roof and lower side walls of decoratively sawn wood panels. Except for the enclosure of a rear porch, the property retains its original characteristics.		Local <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> State _____ Nation _____
Significance:		Status:
Most early Redwood County houses are unadorned or, at most, display modest fragments of mass-produced decoration, often derived from the Queen Anne style. Situated on a site which provides high visibility, the J.A. Anderson House is the best example of the Queen Anne builder style houses of the county. Lamberton druggist J.A. Anderson contracted his brother Andrew Anderson to build the home ca.1900. The house remains in the possession of Anderson's daughter, LaMae Einen. The Anderson House is significant as a well-preserved and well-sited example of a modest but locally distinctive domestic building style.		Survey Date Local _____ State _____ Nat'l.
