EINE

A black and white photograph of a small, white wooden church building. The church has a gabled roof with a small porch over the entrance. The porch is supported by four white posts and has a simple railing. The entrance consists of a double door. To the left of the porch is a large, arched Gothic-style window with a pointed top and a decorative finial. To the right of the porch is a smaller, rectangular window with a decorative finial. A sign is mounted on the front of the porch, displaying the church's name and service time. The building is surrounded by a lawn and some bushes.
