DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Due to the existence of original photographs it is possible to describe this building as it originally looked and to note all changes to the exterior. The house, although constructed during the late Victorian period, is a fine example of the Classic Revival building style. There are two-story prostyle porticos on the south and east sides of the house, originally identically treated, and causing the southeast corner of the house to be extruded. Paired unfluted Ionic columns of the Colossal order define the one-bay pedimented porticos with plain architrave, undecorated frieze and bracketed cornice over dentils and crown molding. The raking cornices are also dentilled. The tympanums each contain an oculus, that on the east still having the original leaded glass. The south portico has been completely enclosed and therefore a further description of the porticos will only be applicable to the east The main entrance doorway is incorporated into a elevation. two-story frontispiece under the east portico. The classically treated doorway has fixed leaded glass lunette and sidelights on the ground floor and a Palladian grouping of windows and door within the second floor balcony which projects into the portico. All windows are double-hung sash with plain surrounds and exterior shutters. The exterior sheathing is clapboard, painted white, and the corners of the house are pilastered. То balance the south portico, there is a large, two-story bay on the north side. The main roof is a hip with cross-gables creating pediments on the south and east. The roof is now covered with asbestos shingles. Brick chimneys are positioned on the north and south sides of the roof.

The house which is presently in use as the office of an interior designer, is in an excellent state of repair.

This elegant Classic Revival residence located at the entrance to Hyde Park was the home of Thomas Carson Taliaferro, born in Orange Courthouse, Virginia in 1859. In the fall of 1883, he came to Tampa as a member of the banking firm of Ambler, Marvin and Stockton. In that year, members of this banking establishment founded the Bank of Tampa and Mr. Taliaferro became the first cashier. In 1886, the bank received a national charter and became the First National Bank with Mr. Taliaferro serving as president from 1903 until 1927. At that time he became chairman of the board, making him the active head of the oldest bank in Tampa for a period of twenty-four years.

The residence which he had constructed on fashionable Hyde Park Avenue in 1890 was designed by St. Louis architects, Grable, Weber and Groves. Considered one of the finest residences in Tampa at the time of its construction, the house was one of the few pictured in the Mid-Winter Edition of the Tampa Tribune published in 1900. It is a fine Classic Revival House, well designed and executed and currently in a good state of preservation.
